Question of "Naval Strength" in Armament Treaties Causes Differences

BULLETIN

Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge does not believe it is necessary to begin immediately the construction of the 10 new light cruisers which would be authorized under the earlier bill, introduced in the house Saturday.

Washington — President Coolidge is trying hard to compromise the dispute with congress over the enlargement of the navy, but the harder he tries the deeper he becomes involved in the meshes of congressional factionalism on foreign policy.

For the controversy over the building of 10 more light cruisers is not a simple problem of economy but a large question of limitation of armaments and international cooperation. Ever since the Washington conference of 1921 the department of state under Secretary Charles Evans Hughes and his successor, Mr. Kellogg, has been striving to keep some of the naval contingent in America from imposing the good faith of Great Britain and Japan in carrying out the letter of the agreements reached whereby the United States and Great Britain were to have a ratio of five to five on capital ships and Japan three.

TREATIES NOT SPECIFIC

While the armament treaties went a long distance in stopping the competition in battleships, they failed to be specific on the subject of "naval strength" as a whole, on which subject some might be said as to the value of guns mounted high and light cruisers, submarines and aircraft. Even after five years the competition has begun anew and the rivalry is developing symptoms of intensity for the naval experts, while relying to a large extent on the battleship, recognize that aircraft and auxiliary cruisers and submarines really count in a well-balanced navy.

Mr. Coolidge is influenced by the argument of the director of the budget, General Lord, who naturally urges economy, especially in such peace-time expenditures on military and naval development which in the absence of any threat of war may seem futile, especially since types of vessels change and new construction is constantly needed to keep up to date.

U. S. NAVAL GROUP

The president gave every intimation in his recent message that he was not going to be stampeded into military and naval expenditures by persons or institutions directly interested in selling to the government, but he has discovered since then that there exists in congress a naval group which believes in the theory of preparedness entirely apart from its commercial aspects. This group is kept informed by naval strength, especially members of the naval committee.

Mr. Coolidge knows that there is in congress a strong sentiment for more naval vessels and that the sincerity of the naval group is attested by the fact that they would gladly insert a provision similar to that in the appropriation bills; namely that if an international agreement on limitation can be reached then construction should be stopped at once.

The president, therefore, is compelled to look abroad for a helping hand. With Great Britain and Japan join again in a conference on limitation of armament to preserve the 5-5-3 principle? If they will, then literally millions of dollars will be saved in the annual budget. International conferences have not been popular here in an era in which the "irreconcilable" group have repeatedly expressed their opposition to international parleys as political.

LIFER, PARDONED, DEVOTES LIFE TO 'MAKING MA HAPPY'

Berlin, N. J.—(P)—Free, after having spent 25 years in the Eastern State penitentiary in Philadelphia, Jacob Pensendorfer now seeks to fill the declining years of his aged mother with joy.

For it was his mother's prayers, he said, that brought a pardon Monday from Governor Pinchot. He was serving a life sentence for murder of his father-in-law.

"I don't know what I'll do," said Pensendorfer, as he sat in the little bungalow built with money he had earned in prison, but which he had never seen until freed, "I only want to forget now and make ma happy."

Mrs. Pensendorfer, who is 78, decorated the bungalow with Christmas greens and put in order a bedroom which she had held sacred, confident in the belief that her son would be released. Pensendorfer was sentenced in 1901 to be executed. After commutation he was known at the penitentiary as "Lifetime Jake."

Stephenson Attorneys Allege Clerk Erred in Certifying Venue Change

Michigan City, Ind.—(P)—Petition for a writ of habeas corpus, to obtain the release of D. C. Stephenson from the Indiana state prison here, was filed before Judge Harry L. Crumpacker of the La Porte Superior court at Michigan City, Tuesday.

The petition, prepared for the appearance in court of the plaintiff, filed before Judge Crumpacker, alleges that Stephenson has been outside the prison walls but once in the year and half of his life term, imposed on his conviction for murder in connection with the death of Madge F. Oberholzer, Indianapolis girl, whom he was alleged to have abducted to Hammond. The former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan was taken several months ago to Indianapolis to testify before a grand jury investigating allegations of Klan domination of Indiana politics.

FAILED TO CERTIFY

The habeas corpus petition is based on an allegation that the clerk of Marion county (Indianapolis) erred in certifying a change of venue in Stephenson's murder trial to the court of Hamilton county, where Stephenson was convicted.

Lloyd O. Hill and Paul Newman, Indianapolis attorneys, with Robert H. Moore of Michigan City, are representing Stephenson, were reluctant, however, to discuss eventualities in the case beyond the step at hand. Should their petition be granted, Stephenson probably would be returned to the sheriff of Hamilton county.

It was in the latter county that the former Grand Dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan was convicted of the first degree murder of Miss Oberholzer, who took poison following her alleged abduction.

ITALY IS SURPRISED AT POPE'S CRITICISM

Rome —(P)—The Italian government considers "strange, surprising and uncalled for" Pope Pius' pointed criticism of Fascism's religious policies contained in Monday's allocution, the Associated Press Tuesday was informed by a government spokesman.

The papal declaration, which is felt to have eliminated any hope of a speedy reconciliation between church and state in Italy, came as such a shock to political circles generally that the greatest reticence is being observed, while the newspapers have not printed a single word of comment.

Italian Ship Rescues Sailors In Mid-Atlantic

Genoa, Italy —(P)—Another romance of the high seas was told Tuesday when the Italian steamship Roma, carrying 26 survivors of the 1,700-ton Italian bark Guarneri, arrived with the story of a heroic rescue during a furious storm in mid-Atlantic on Dec. 17.

A radio message, saying that the Guarneri, carrying 3,000 tons of marble to Rio Janeiro was in a sinking condition with her masts gone, was picked up on the morning of Dec. 17, when the Roma was 150 miles distant from the stricken ship.

The British freighter Virfel also answered the call, but the commander was informed that the situation was in hand.

At noon the Guarneri radioed: "Water mounting. Crew wants to abandon. Advice."

To this appeal the Roma rushed

ASK BLAINE TO SHOW 'LIES' IN BOOK ON TAXES

Wisconsin League of Municipalities Asks Governor to Back Claim

Milwaukee—(P)—Governor John J. Blaine has been asked by the taxation committee of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities to outline any "lies, untruths or misstatements" in "A Taxation Catechism" and analysis of the state taxation system recently published and widely distributed by the league.

It became known Tuesday that Governor Blaine had been asked to give special instances so that they might be corrected, following his complaint to President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin. Ford H. MacGregor, secretary of the league, and associate professor of political science on the university faculty, prepared the Catechism, which characterizes as "misleading the administration claim that no state taxes are levied."

CALLS TEXT "LIES"

In describing as "lies, untruths or misstatements," the text of the pamphlet, Governor Blaine, in his letter Nov. 3 to President Frank, asserted that the work was "unworthy" of a University of Wisconsin faculty member. It is understood however that the governor made no request that President Frank take any action. The matter was not called to the attention of Professor MacGregor by Governor Blaine, and according to officials of the league, they received no complaint from the executive.

In a round about way the word of Governor Blaine's letter to President Frank came to the attention of the executive, legislative and taxation committee of the league at a meeting in Milwaukee, Dec. 4, and city manager Henry Traxler of Janesville, as chairman of the taxation committee, was authorized to ask Governor Blaine to outline the errors of the Catechism.

In a letter to Governor Blaine, Dec. 15, the taxation committee, headed by Mr. Traxler, accepted full responsibility for the Catechism.

SMITH ACCEPTS SEAT, CHICAGO PAPER SAYS

Illinois Senator-elect to Present Credential at Capital Early in 1927

Chicago—(P)—The Chicago Daily Journal in a copyright news story Tuesday reported the acceptance of Col. Frank L. Smith of the appointment by Governor Len Small to the unexpired term of William B. McKinley in the United States senate.

Colonel Smith will leave for Washington to present his credential after the first of the year, the Journal said.

The announcement was made on the authority of Governor Small who was quoted as saying Colonel Smith accepted by telegram Sunday night after receiving the certificate of appointment at his home in Dwight.

"No man ever refused an appointment for the United States senate by the governor of Illinois," the governor was quoted as adding. "Nothing can deter an acceptance to such a high office."

WHAT WILL KING GIVE QUEEN FOR CHRISTMAS?

Sandringham, England —(P)—King George's Christmas gifts to the queen, which are to be chiefly articles of jewelry, but just what he is to give the queen, and vice versa, remains by tradition a secret. The queen's remembrance to the prince of Wales includes cuff links of the enamel racquets commemorating his recent splendid play in the army squashes championships.

An oriental touch will be given to the royal Christmas this year owing to the arrival of Prince George, the youngest son, from the Far East, where he served as a naval lieutenant. He brought with him a wealth of gifts for the family, including a Chinese. The gifts will be distributed at the Royal breakfast table.

Wichita Falls, Texas—(P)—Bank officials here Tuesday said a comparison of serial numbers on nearly $4,000 in currency, carried by two men arrested at Nebraska City, Neb., Monday night, probably would be asked in connection with the investigation of the robbery of the Bank of Odell at Odell, Texas, last Saturday. Three men robbed the Odell bank of more than $5,000 in currency and silver. Recovery of $150, in small change, and some wrappers from bills taken from the Odell bank was reported Monday at Altus, Okla.

BET ON GAME IN '19 SERIES 'CZAR' HINTS

Scandal Is Third in Organized Baseball, Exposed Within Six Years

Chicago—(P)—Ty Cobb and This Speaker were linked Tuesday in an investigation conducted by Baseball Commissioner Landis, involving an alleged irregularity of a game between Detroit and Cleveland played in Detroit Sept. 25, 1919.

Commissioner Landis, without making any decision, made public more than 100 pages of testimonies taken in connection with the case. Cobb and Speaker, recently resigned as managers of the Detroit and Cleveland clubs, respectively.

"Dutch" Leonard, once pitcher with the Detroit club, and Joe Wood, another American League pitcher, also were named in the investigation, which Commissioner Landis indicated, involved betting on the result of the game. Tuesday's scandal is the third to be exploded within the last six years, and on the surface appeared to be as startling as the famous crooked world's series of 1919, after which eight stars of the Chicago White Sox were forever barred from organized baseball.

SHOW COBB LETTERS

The volume of testimonies, Commissioner Landis made public, included letters Cobb is purported to have written to Leonard, the Tiger pitcher. Fred C. West, who is not immediately identified in connection with the investigation, also was named in the testimony.

Cobb, here with Speaker for a hearing granted by Judge Landis Monday, declared that he did not know of the bet until long afterwards and that the bet was of the kind which Detroit won 3 to 5, would show that he nor Speaker could have been implicated in throwing the game.

TELLS OF BET

Cobb related that "Dutch" Leonard, Detroit pitcher, and Joe Wood, pitcher, had bet $500 against $150 that Detroit would win the game. Cobb said that he would show that he nor Speaker could have been implicated in throwing the game.

Probascio in her fashionable Park-ave apartment on Sunday and then turned the pistol on herself Tuesday was under fire of her attorney, Frederick C. Leubuscher. In a statement issued after Probascio had been released from the prison ward at Bellevue hospital on $12,500 bail on a technical charge of homicide and removed to a private of his own home, Leubuscher denied that Mrs. Ingersoll owed Probascio money, said Probascio was the pursuer of the dead woman and demanded a thorough police investigation.

WOULD REAPPORTION HOUSE MEMBERSHIP

Washington, D. C.—(P)—The bill by Representative McLeod, Republican, Michigan, for reapportionment of the house on the basis of 1920 census was explained Tuesday to President Coolidge by the author of the measure, who sought support of it. The bill would not alter the present number of representatives but would reapportion them, making 240,000 voters the basis for a congressional district. Representative McLeod said the bill would give details of the reapportionment and the measure went through.

WRIGHT BROTHERS MADE FIRST FLIGHT JUST 23 YEARS AGO

Surviving Brother Describes Efforts Made During Summer of 1903

Dayton, O., (P)—A vast aerial traffic, carrying thousands of passengers across the continent every 24 hours in swift, luxurious planes may be a commonplace fact within a few years, as a result of two young men's plans for a summer's work a quarter of a century ago.

Orville Wright, co-inventor with his brother Wilbur of the airplane, in an interview with the Associated Press, recalled the summer's pastime which became a science and involved the vision of its possibilities. Friday was the first anniversary of the first successful airplane flight when the Wrights' flying ship took off from a bleak hillside near Dayton on Dec. 17, 1903, and soared over a nearby marsh.

INVENTION PARTLY ACCIDENTAL

Naturally conservative and cautious, Mr. Wright said he did not know of any other inventors who were not in existence. "Of course I don't know when that time will come, if ever, but it does seem likely, doesn't it? There is no reason why we shouldn't travel across the continent by air. Crossing the ocean is different because of the dangers of landing."

The inventor is a shy, reserved man, but his reticence gave way to reminiscence and prophecy. He revealed that the airplane, like other great inventions, was at least partly accidental.

"Wilbur and I had been reading about gliders and the first plan, just for sport, we planned to build one," Mr. Wright said. "We used all the data available at that time, but the glider wouldn't glide. All the calculations were wrong. Then we became interested in the scientific side, and conducted our own experiments on which we based new calculations. It was not so much inspiration and genius as understanding of the laws of physics that made these experiments successful."

FEELT IT WOULD FLY

"Another question that bothered us was: Would we be able to fly it after we'd built it? Man had never flown in a heavier-than-air machine before. In fact, I believe our biggest thrill came from being in bed and thinking about what might happen."

On the other hand, while the sense of achievement as the first planer, just to fly, was strong, the thrill that day was rather less than might have been expected.

"We were certain it would fly," the inventor said. "We'd figured everything out carefully and knew exactly what it ought to do. We built small models and made wind tunnel tests just as they do now, and we'd have been much more surprised if it hadn't flown."

When the two brothers made that first flight in a powered machine, only a handful of the friends braved the cold and stood on the wind-swept slope to witness the take off.

DEVELOPMENT UNLIMITED

Mr. Wright was apparently amused to recall how far short their imaginations had fallen in visualizing the future of the airplane.

"We thought it might make a hundred miles an hour possibly, and now they're approaching three hundred. We imagined it in use for pleasure and possibly for observation purposes in war. The progress has been greater than we ever dreamed."

Today, however, he admitted the possibilities were virtually unlimited. "Who can tell what they can do with the airplane in the next few years? Already its speed has been brought up from 20 or 30 miles an hour to nearly 300. Airplanes are carrying passengers in comfort and safety. They move mail more swiftly than we could hope to by any other agency. The airplane means transportation—speed and transportation. It can and will be of immense benefit in war and commerce."

URGES PRIVATE AIRLINES

Mr. Wright's ideas on commercial aviation development absolutely bar government subsidies, but include federal government aid in mapping, advisory and perhaps supervisory control. He believes the air lines should be operated by private concerns. His program also would provide that state and municipal governments do their part by establishing and equipping landing fields at much more frequent intervals along the air routes.

"Flying itself is not dangerous," he asserted. "It is the lack of proper emergency landing fields close together that makes flying dangerous when one is forced to land. The emergency fields should be about 25 miles apart."

The inventor praised the policy of the department of commerce in its encouragement of commercial aviation, and expressed disapproval of the post office department's letting the air mail route contracts to private concerns at the present stage.

"The routes are not paying propositions now," he said, "and what private operators can afford to stand the losses?" The government should get them on a paying basis before turning them over to private operators. He declared, however, that the air mail route was the most important step yet taken in the development of commercial aviation.

The post office in Sweden is a money making institution. The net profits for the last year being $5,271,317.56 or $55 per inhabitant.

STEIDL SELLS PART OF BRIGHTON BEACH

John S. Sensesbrenner Buys
700 Feet of Lake Frontage
for Home Site

John S. Sensesbrenner, Neenah, Monday afternoon purchased 700 feet of lake frontage at Brighton beach from Joseph Steidl on which he will erect a home which will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. Neither Mr. Sensesbrenner nor Mr. Steidl would announce the purchase price.

Mr. Sensesbrenner's property lies next to the interurban tracks and the southern boundary is about where the Brighton beach bathhouse stands. Mr. Steidl retained ownership of the building on the property and will immediately dismantle or move them.

Mr. Steidl still owns considerable lake frontage south of Mr. Sensesbrenner's purchase and he expects to erect a number of cottages on this property. It is probable several will be built before next summer.

Mr. Steidl has owned Brighton beach for about 11 years. Sale of the tract to Mr. Sensesbrenner means the end of Brighton beach as an amusement resort.

Dr. George N. Pratt of Neenah has purchased 200 feet of lake frontage in Menasha on which he plans to build a new home as soon as he disposes of his present residence on N. Park ave, Neenah.

Possibility of foul play in the mysterious disappearance of a jewelry salesman interested Milwaukee police Monday when notice of the absence of L. E. Rappin, 38, of 330 Chestnut-st., Milwaukee, was brought in. The address is that of the Clifton house, a pioneer hotel. According to the proprietor, Rappin registered there Dec. 11, and has not been seen for a week.

A sample case, found in his room, contained several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry, but no clue to the salesman. Rappin always stopped at the Clifton house when in Milwaukee, it was said. Business friends here fear that he may have been waylaid by robbers who knew his occupation.

POULTRY SOLD BY LOCAL MERCHANTS RAISED NEAR HERE

No Turkeys Shipped in from Distance and Prices Are Not High

Meat market and other merchants who deal in poultry for the Christmas season were unjustly treated in an article which appeared in the Post-Crescent Monday stating that "the majority of turkeys coming here is shipped from the south and southwest." This statement was not based on fact because all the turkeys sold in Appleton are raised within a few miles of Appleton and no fowl and especially no turkey is shipped in here from away. Appleton merchants do not deal in cold storage fowl.

The story also erred in that it said that the price of Christmas fowl would be high. The fact of the matter is that there is quite an abundance of all kinds of fowl and prices are but little, if any, higher than at Thanksgiving time. Market men also say that turkeys are better now than at Thanksgiving because they have had more time to fatten.

There seems to be an abundance of chicken on the local market and plenty of other fowl. Prices quoted by Appleton merchants are considerably less than indicated in the erroneous story.

This article was based on information from a source believed to be authentic but investigation after complaints showed that it was entirely at variance with the facts.

Testimony in the suit of William Bloch, Oshkosh, suing Dr. Robert Larson, chiropractor, for $25,000 damages for alleged malpractice will all be in before night Tuesday, it was expected.

According to the allegations of the plaintiff the defendant in his capacity as a paid chiropractor broke the plaintiff's hip during a treatment.

The defense, it is believed, will contend that Mr. Bloch was suffering from a bone condition which made the alleged mishap unavoidable. Mr. Bloch, the complaint alleged, had been the object of many such treatments prior to the mishap without suffering any ill results.

SHERWOOD MAN'S SUIT
SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Menasha—Attorney M. M. Schoetz, who represented the claimants, has received notice that the Jarnage case of John Hopenberger and son, Andrew of Sherwood against the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railroad company has been settled out of court. The action was the result of a railroad crossing collision in July, 1925, on highway 114 near Sherwood when the claimants' automobile was struck by a freight train.

TRUANTS WARNED TO ATTEND SCHOOL

Judge Warns Youngsters That Punishment Will Follow if They Don't Behave

Menasha—Five Menasha young people of school age were taken before Judge Goss in municipal court at Oshkosh charged with habitual truancy. These young people were accompanied by parents or guardians who were held accountable to the court for nonobservance of the law and severely criticized for having lost control of their children.

Two boys, between 16 and 18, have no attendance record for the present year and were warned that if their last time was not made up and regular attendance kept up in the future, the law would be enforced. One lad of 14 had been leaving home in the morning, supposedly for school during the entire year and until the visit of the truant officer the mother did not know he was not in school. Lack of proper clothing was the excuse in one instance of another lad of 14 who has been truant.

One girl of 15, accompanied by her parents, was given a severe scolding by Judge Goss.

The parents acknowledged loss of control of their daughter, but petitioned for a period of probation.

Miss Edna Robertson has been engaged as truant or attendance officer by the local board of education and the industrial board of education.

ISLAND CREDITORS
TO GET 27 CENTS
ON DOLLAR OF DEBT

No Use to Press Action Against Directors of Company, Judge Says

Menasha—At the hearing of the final account of Hugh Strange, receiver of the Island Paper company of Menasha in circuit court at Oshkosh Monday, Judge Fred Beglinger directed that the account be allowed as filed, and directed that that after the costs of the receivership had been paid, the balance of the money obtained from the recent sale of the Island Paper company's holdings be distributed among the creditors. Approximately 27 cents on a dollar will be paid the creditors, Mr. Strange stated.

According to the testimony given in court by Mr. Strange the firm's books were in a deplorable condition. His investigation showed that there has been a large overdraw in the firm accounts, dating back as early as 1907. In 1910 this amount was only $3,500, but by 1925 it amounted to considerably more than $50,000.

The matter was not revealed to the stockholders or to the board of directors, Mr. Strange said, although the situation should have been realized by Duncan T. H. MacKinnon of Menasha, president of the concern for the past 25 years, and by other active officers.

The investigation by the receiver, according to the testimony Monday, revealed that any attempt to recover from the stockholders or from Mr. MacKinnon would be useless as the majority are practically impoverished, he said. The men involved are of advanced age and have no important holdings outside the Island Paper company, Mr. Strange declared.

The first knowledge the stockholders and directors of the concern had of the circumstances of the firm was in June, 1925, when a special meeting was held. Since that time every effort has been made to see what steps could be taken to remedy conditions, according to the receiver.

According to the report, Mr. Mac-

START COLLECTION OF TAXES AT MENASHA

Menasha—Collection of taxes commenced at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at the municipal offices and Mayor N. G. Tennel had the distinction of being the first taxpayer to pay his taxes. He has held this honor for several years. The Old Folios were the second to pay their taxes and the third receipt was issued to Lawrence Beck. During tax collection time the office hours will be from 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

VACATION BEGINS

Menasha—All classes in the grades, vocational school, high school and evening school will be dismissed Wednesday of this week for the annual holiday vacation. At one of the teachers' meetings, it was decided to shorten the Christmas and Easter vacations and thus dismiss school a week earlier in June. Sessions will be resumed on Tuesday, Jan. 4.

Kinnon's salary during the time of his connection with the company ranged from $1,000 annually in 1907 to $2,400 in 1919. It has remained at that figure until the present time. The investigation of Mr. Strange further reveals that Mr. MacKinnon has carried a heavy private debt for which his only security has been his stock in the Island Paper company.

In view of the circumstances surrounding the case, Judge Beglinger added to his opinion the recommendation that no further action be taken against the directors or the president of the concern.

COOLIDGE IN MIDST OF CROWDED SOCIAL ACTIVITIES OF YEAR

Biggest White House Reception Held New Year's Day; Open to All

Washington.—The cabinet dinner of Dec. 2, opened for President and Mrs. Coolidge the strenuous round of presidential social winter activities which stretch with little interruption to about the middle of February.

Although the major functions at the executive mansion are only nine, they impose heavy burdens. For one thing, practice calls for return dinners, the part of cabinet officers, the chief justice and the speaker of the house, thus adding twelve more formal occasions to the White House social calendar.

50,000 VISITORS YEARLY
Although the major functions at president may not be considered by many his most burdensome activity, an idea of the downright fatigue involved in White House entertaining may be gathered from the fact that frequenters of the executive mansion, at dinners, receptions, garden parties, and other special occasions have reached in late years the stupendous figure of more than 50,000 visitors yearly, without reckoning those who "pay respects" at the executive offices.

Guests for the White House functions are chosen from a list comprising from eight to ten thousand names, which is unique among social registers in that official position or other personal merit of the individual, inspired its compilation. Every person on this list is invited to go to at least one dinner or reception. The dinners are given in honor of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps, the supreme court and the speaker, in addition to the diplomatic, judicial, congressional, army and navy, and New Year's receptions.

ABOUT 50 TO A DINNER
The dinner are usually of about fifty guests, to whom a few hundred more are added after dinner to listen to a musicale. The receptions are very much larger affairs, usually running to over a thousand guests. President and Mrs. Coolidge shake hands with every one.

The biggest reception of all is held on New Year's day, when in addition to all the officials, diplomats and other functionaries who are expected to bring greetings to the White House, the executive mansion is opened to all who wish to call upon the president. As a rule about 4,000 persons avail themselves of the opportunity. On occasions, up to 1,000 persons have been personally greeted every 20 minutes. Mrs. Coolidge wears out a pair of kid gloves at every reception, and after the larger ceremonies the president's hand is stiff and sometimes swollen.

Entertaining, like many of the other duties incumbent upon the president of the United States, is more agreeable as a prospect than as an actuality.

IF YOU BUY CAR NOW, BUY 1926 LICENSE TOO

The police department does not make the laws—it is an enforcement organization only, Chief George T. Prim pointed out Monday in commenting on the fact that the department will be forced to make arrests if automobiles purchased before Jan. 1, and driven, do not carry a 1926 license.

An edict issued from the office of the secretary of state says that license for six months must be procured if a newly purchased machine is to be driven between now and the first of the year.

"That's the law and that's all there is to it—we can not issue any form of special permit," the chief declared.

Louis XIV deserved the title of "grand monarch" for his treatment of doctors. He was subjected to an operation for fistula in 1686, which cost him $200,000.

DRUG STORES SELL CHRISTMAS SEALS

Half of Proceeds from Sale Will Be Expended in Appleton

Christmas seals of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association may be purchased at various drug stores in the city as well as at the Appleton Women's club, headquarters of the campaign, according to an announcement made by Mrs. William Nemacheck, chairman of the seal sale committee. The Towner Drug-co, Schintz Brothers-co, Bolling's Drug store, Gilson pharmacy, Voigt's Drug store, and R. C. Lowell and Co. will have the stamps. Money obtained from the sale of seals will be used in health work in the state. Half of the proceeds will remain in Appleton for use here and the rest will be managed by the state association. One of the chief needs of money by the organization is the open air school.

In 1910, the first school was organized and financed in Milwaukee by the association and the others are conducted by means of the seal sale until the cities see fit to finance them. The open air school is believed to be of benefit to the child and economy to the state.

In Wisconsin there are 16 of these schools located in Neenah, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Sheboygan, Milwaukee, Kenosha, and Racine. The association believes that there should be at least one in every community. This statement is based on the gains made physically and mentally by under-nourished children even when there has been a definite disposition to tuberculosis.

The association has added a heart specialist to its staff and examinations for heart as well as lung trouble is

A word to the WIVES—

P. A. says "MERRY CHRISTMAS" in capital letters

"NO MORE WORRYIN'," as the song says, about what to give the man who smokes a pipe. Here is the National Joy Smoke, Prince Albert, all fussed up in holiday attire. A gift to gladden his heart on the Big Day; a generous supply to keep him happy.

Peeping out of the special Christmas carton is the pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top. A container to grace any smoking-stand or office-desk. As practical as it is good-looking. Best of all, it contains Prince Albert—mild, mellow, and fragrant!

In addition to the glass humidor, there are pound and half-pound tins of this same wonderful tobacco. It's the tobacco, after all, that counts. Experienced smokers know that no other tobacco is like P. A. for sheer pipe-enjoyment, day in and day out.

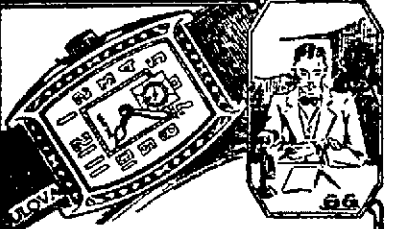

Take out your Christmas list now. Alongside the name of every pipe-smoker write "Prince Albert." This is the happy solution of the annual problem so far as the men-folks are concerned. It will save your time and give others the time of their lives.

LOTS OF TROUBLE BUILDING ICE RINK

Water Soaks Away as Fast as It Is Poured on Soft Ground

Great difficulty is being experienced by the street department in its efforts to flood a skating rink on Roosevelt school grounds, according to R. F. Hackworthy, street commissioner. The ground, covered by heavy snow, has not been frozen, and the water placed on the rink soaks into the earth before it freezes.

Work was started on the rink Monday but will probably be three or four days before it will be in shape for use, Mr. Hackworthy said, and it may be impossible to complete a rink on these grounds at all.

Workmen have finished rinks in four other sections of the city and they are being used at present. These rinks are located at the corner of S. Outagamie and W. Spencer-sts., at the First Ward school, at McKinley school and at Columbus school.

Approximately 50 men with five trucks and three tractors and graders are being used to clear the streets in the business section of snow. Parking conditions on College-ave and on all the side streets within two blocks of the avenue are good. The surplus snow is being dumped in the ravine on W. College-ave.

KEEP GARDEN SCHEME FOR PUBLIC EXHIBIT

Wauwatosa. (AP)—The prize winning garden scheme of Archie S. Hill, Wauwatosa, will be maintained as a public exhibit in connection with nationwide "one-man garden" competition sponsored by the New York Botanical Garden, it was announced here today.

The aim of the contest, according to the announcement, "is to popularize the possibilities of small one-man or one-woman gardens, with a maximum of taste and minimum of expense." The contest will close March 1, 1927, and in the spring or early summer the Botanical Garden will lay out in its grounds the prize garden as planned by the winner.

The area of the "one-man garden" is to be forty by fifty-two feet, and the plans submitted should be scaled one quarter of an inch to the foot. Simplicity and lasting beauty will be the outstanding features of the winning plan, the announcement indicated.

Winter "Officially" Here At 8:34 Tomorrow Morning

Winter will officially begin at 8:34 Wednesday morning, according to astronomical calculations. But although the winter solstice will not come until Dec. 22, it is necessary of cold weather has been here for some time.

In the whole winter last year only day registered colder than the "fall" has shown this year and this difference was of one degree, Jan. 28, 1926 the government thermometer indicated 15 degrees below zero and rose to 6 degrees below at noon. On Dec. 14, 1926, while it was still the autumn season, the figure of 15 degrees below was shown, and the mercury rose to a minus 5 degrees.

If the relative fall and winter weather is the same this year as in 1926 and 1925, temperatures will drop to 39 degrees below zero before the season passes. No sub-zero weather was reported during the fall last year, the lowest temperature being 4 degrees above zero on Nov. 28. This was the coldest period until the day after Christmas, Dec. 26, when it was 10 degrees below-zero.

Differences between "fall" and "winter" weather last year were 20 degrees. If the same ratio is maintained this winter there will be frozen water and gas pipes as well as noses and ears.

GORMAN NO MATCH FOR JACK DELANEY

New York. (AP)—Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., was in step with leading contenders for the heavyweight crown of Gene Tunney Tuesday as a result of a sensational two-round triumph over Bud Gorman of Wisconsin at Jersey City, N. J.

Conceding 25 pounds to his rugged foe, the lightweight champion Monday night stopped Gorman after 4 minutes and 35 seconds of fighting. The referee intervened after Gorman was dropped twice.

Delaney held even in the first round and cut about the nose at the outset of the second, suddenly lashed out with right smash to the chin which toppled the 200-pound Gorman for a count of eight. Another right drive sent him

NO BAD BOYS IN APPLETON - JUST BEFORE HOLIDAYS

There are no bad boys nor girls in Appleton, according to Judge Fred V. Heineemann, speaking strictly in his capacity as judge of the juvenile court. "Of course," the judge pointed out, "this statement has nothing to do with the approach of Christmas but the peculiar fact exists that there have been no juveniles brought into court during the past 10 days."

However, there are persons so suspicious as to think the coming tour of Santa Claus may have something to do with the fact that Appleton is passing through a period of juvenile rectitude.

Compare the leading instruments of this type. There is a best. It is unmistakable by comparison. Then: a few choice rolls of Rachmaninoff, Levitzki, Lhevinne - brightened with a half dozen of Adam Carol and Lopez, or other masters of ballad and dance rhythm. Such a Christmas is only the beginning of a long succession of days and years of sheer contentment and prideful ownership.

BRAMBACH

BABY GRAND

To The People of Appleton:

Q "The Home Beautiful Contains a Grand!"

Q So spoke one of New York's leading interior decorators. He went on to add that the shields of Heppelwhite—the fine lines of Sheraton—the lamps and wreaths of Adam Bros., could not add to a room the charm and grace imparted by a small grand piano.

Q In this same measure, a Brambach Baby Grand will add a subtle air of refinement and charm to your home. On Christmas morning it will be the gift of gifts. Because of its aristocratic proportions, lustrous finish, handsome case work, in either straight or period designs, the Brambach has always been noted for its grace and beauty.

Q Let me send you a paper pattern showing how little space a Brambach Baby Grand will occupy in your home. You will then want to inspect these exquisite little instruments in our showrooms and learn how easy it is to own a Brambach under our liberal deferred payment plan.

Former Tight Wire Walker Queen Misses Thrill Of Circus Days
Now Aerial Dancer Performs Household Duties To Preserve Figure

Boston, Mass.—Bird Millman today is afraid to walk the wire where once she danced as a reigning queen.

She is not afraid of falling. Her fear is of the old magic thrill that was her life under the circus tent and late on Broadway.

"If I kept in wire practice or even did the exercises necessary to stay fit, I should get quite restless—I should want to leave," said Bird, now settled into the placid uneventfulness of married life.

"I don't dare to exercise too much. It would tempt me to return, and I've given up the stage and the circus."

So the only exercise the little "aerial dancer" does are housewife's hand and stretches for the preservation of her trim figure. Her walking ability is nearly gone, and it would take months of practice to build her muscles back into fitness for high-tension work.

HAS ONE-MAN AUDIENCE NOW

After receiving for years the tribute of gasps and acclaim from countless thousands, Bird Millman now is playing to a one-man audience. He is Joseph P. O'Day, her husband, Harvard graduate, wealthy manufacturer of dyes, alien to the world of tinsel and spotlights. They slipped away and were married after a last-night performance of the Greenwich Village Follies two years ago last May. Since then her world has been Coolidge Corner, Boston, a world of conventionalities and conformities. Her big trouping wardrobe trunks remain locked in the basement.

She is trying her hardest to "be," whereas all her training has been to "do." But she may yet "do" a modified return engagement—in the movies.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

DAVID WILSON, the young tomboy author and scenario writer, once traveled with the Ringling circus and there wrote "Little Texas" based on Bird's life. Later they wrote a book of verse together and now Miss Wilson is writing a scenario on an Egyptian theme and wants Bird to take the lead.

Mrs. O'Day asked Mr. O'Day, who said "No." But now Joe is reconsidering under the wiles of wifely diplomacy, and Bird is counting on seeing California by spring.

"I don't know what I'll do," said the beautiful and vivacious Bird, "I don't believe in mixing home and career, and home-making is my job."

But for all that, Bird still is the actress. When she moved into her "five rooms front," she brought along her love of the theatrical. Bits of Chinese red, dull blue velvet curtains, weird lighting effects all make a colorful backdrop from her latest act, "Domesticity."

She said her ideal home would have invisible windows.

DAYLIGHT TOO MATTER-OF-FACT

"I don't like the daylight. It is so hard and matter-of-fact. It leaves nothing to the imagination," she said.

It isn't the kind of setting in which one dawns socks. She doesn't. She prefers to make long-legged dolls with floofy hair.

"I make the loveliest coffee, too," said Bird. "Too" is her favorite word; it shows her different interests.

"I'm in love with Joe, but I can't help loving my work, too," is the way she expresses that itch for savdust, tinsel and admiration. She keeps this longing in check until it becomes so strong that Joe has to take her on a long trip, with overnight stops and much hurry and dust. In between, she speeds her roadster over Boston's streets.

FIRST JOINED CIRCUS AT 8

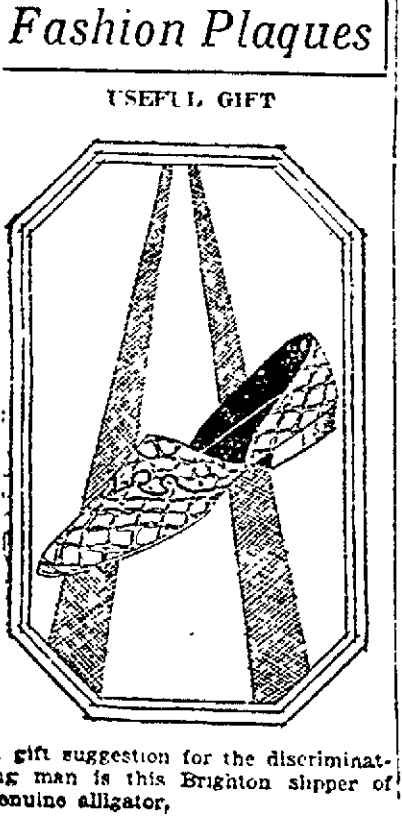

For that has been part of her life since she joined the circus at the age of 8. Bird Millman, of the "Three Millmans, Aerial Artists," put the little dancer on the practice wire when she was 8. That started a career which was her whole life until that night in Boston at the stage door when handsome young O'Day was introduced.

"What do we do for entertainment?" Oh, we play bridge, or something dumb like that. We take discreet trips, knowing perfectly well when we leave just what we will see and when we will return. We go to the theatre several times a week."

None of the sports, even the most venous ones, hold any attraction for her. She says they "bore" the sensitive, spring-soft muscles on which her life once depended. But the movies, she thinks, will be a temporary excitement which she needs.

DOLLAR SIGN ON CHRISTMAS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

USEFUL GIFT

A gift suggestion for the discriminating man is this Brighton slipper of genuine alligator.

THE Associated Charities in one of the large cities decided against the Christmas basket and the surprise package this year. They are soliciting money contributions instead.

"We find," said the worthy women at the head of it, "that money contributions are much more welcome to the poor than a basket of luxuries. The mother of a family will take the money and buy cheap cuts of meat that will last three times as long as a chicken, and the money that goes into the box will pay for stockings."

"Undoubtedly common sense and good business," my head said when I read it. "A very good idea indeed! It does seem silly to send holly-decked baskets and toys for the children when they haven't a stocking between them and the outside world, and no food to eat."

My heart, however, had its say so. "See here!" it said "if this Christmas business is going to be such a hard-headed and calculating affair, what is the idea of having it at all? Or why not have it on the 15th of January or the 29th of August, or wait until there is a pause or a strike or something?"

It is the children I am thinking of. We advertise Santa Claus for two months ahead of every street corner, in every store, in every paper. He is sung about in schools, he is represented in every church entertainment! If the father and mother of the poor family do not encourage the child in the mystery of Christmas at home, we take good care to see that the holiday contagion reaches him outside of it.

If the teacher draws pictures on the blackboard in school, of Santa Claus going down the chimney with his bag of toys for good children, the poor little wail sits and looks at them day after day, and wishes and wonders—and hopes!

Life has an idea that there isn't much in it for him, but will he be a rank outsider, he wonders, or will some miracle happen to clove him with the initiate? He turns hot and cold at the thought that there might be something in his stocking on Christmas morning. And perhaps they'll have a dinner like other people and everything will be jolly for a little while."

I believe that more socialists are born on Christmas morning among disappointed children than we realize. A new pair of stockings will be worn out in a week. The deep hurt of neglect

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

For years the entire Lane clan had gathered at the Myrtle Street home of Jim Lane for Thanksgiving dinner, and Faith had determined that Cherry's wedding should not interfere with the tradition. For days she had baked and cleaned house in preparation for the big feast day. A lordly turkey, the largest that Jim Lane could find in the city, was ready for the oven before the other members of the family straggled into the dining room for a late breakfast. Dinner was to be at two o'clock, and the eight guests would begin to arrive by noon.

Thanksgiving breakfast was as traditional as Thanksgiving dinner in that old-fashioned household. By nine o'clock Faith was ready to serve the fluffy, delicately browned buckwheat cakes and the crispy fried link sausage. Hours of work lay ahead of her before she could summon the fourteen hungry diners to the feast. The wide sink board was piled high with celery, lettuce, cauliflower, sweet potatoes, carrots and parsnips, and ranged in the window was a row of glasses, filled with ruby-red cranberry jelly, made the day before.

"Do you think we've got enough food in the house?" Mrs. Lane sighed over her first cup of coffee.

"Food enough?" Faith retorted wearily. "I've baked enough for a regiment. I think it's positively indecent to eat as much as this family does at Thanksgiving and Christmas. By the time I get it all cooked I hate the sight of a chocolate cake or a stuffed turkey. I've asked Bob Hathaway for dinner," she concluded, with a glance at her father's troubled face.

"That's good—glad you did," he answered, with more enthusiasm than he had shown for weeks.

"Gee, so am I!" "Long" grinned embarrassedly. "Say, Sis, Fay's folks have all gone to Chicago for Thanksgiving and she didn't go because her grandparents are sore at her—y'know?" He flushed at his necessity to allude even so indirectly to his sweetheart's runaway marriage of the year before—a marriage which had been promptly annulled because of the extreme youth of both bride and groom.

"Oh, well," Faith sighed, then forced herself to smile warmly. "One more won't make any difference, I guess. Tell her to come along. Do you know whether Cherry's up yet?"

"Mother? I hope she's asleep late."

"I'm up," a languid voice from the doorway answered. "Couldn't sleep. Lordy, I'm dead, simply dead. I'll be glad when all this fuss is over."

Faith, studying the pale face that was usually so vivid, saw a flicker of fear and distaste in the shadowed hazel eyes, that gave the lie to her last words. No, Faith thought sadly, Cherry would not be glad when it was all over.

"Could I have just a glass of orange juice, Faith darling?" Cherry dropped into a chair and stared with up-curling distaste at the platter of sausages and their syrupy pancakes on the plates about her. "Did I hear you say Fay Allen is coming to dinner, Junior? I'm glad she is—I like her, Long. She's a good kid, and I'm sorry for all the nasty things I've said about her. Did Aunt Hattie get the hem right in your dress, Mugsy?"

"I guess so," Mrs. Lane sighed. "I hardly knew whether I was standing on my head or feet, Hattie talked so hard and fast while she was fitting it. I told her if she wore that old black taffeta of hers to the wedding."

"Oh, let's don't talk about the wedding," Cherry burst out petulantly, her childish lips quivering. "Wedding, wedding! I haven't heard anything else 'till I think I'll shriek. Who's got the paper? She demanded inconsistently. "Did they use the pictures?"

"Here it is. There's nearly a whole page about the wedding! Joy shrieked from the living room, where she had been so absorbed in contemplating the miracle of her own picture in the paper that she had ignored repeated calls to breakfast. "They've got my picture, too, Cherry! Right spang in the middle of the page!"

"Give it here!" Excitement brought color and sparkle into Cherry's tired little face. "Oh, Mugsy, we're simply spread all over the society page! Listen—May and December Wedding Most Impressive of Season! I wish they'd lay off that 'May and December' stuff."

She was still staring in fascination at the extravagant layout of pictures and headlines when the family had finished breakfast. Faith, clearing the table, was thankful that it took so little to restore her good spirits.

"I'd give anything if the whole darn outfit of kink-folks wasn't coming!" she flung down the paper and stared at Faith with suddenly tragic eyes. "I feel like I can't possibly go through the day. They'll be picking at me all day long. And you'll be dog-tired when it's all over. Can I help you, darling?"

"I want you to rest," Faith told her fondly.

"Rest?" Cherry's voice was bitter. "I didn't sleep a wink all night. I've got to keep so busy today that I won't have time to think. If I think—oh my God, Faith! What am I doing? What am I doing? Faith!" Her voice rose in a shrill crescendo of fright and pain, then broke on a flood of tears.

WE JUST TEND TO OUR KNITTING, SAY CHAMPION WOOLEN ATHLETES

If ever a mixed doubles knitting match is held for the world's championship, the Newark, N. J., chapter of the Red Cross is sure to carry off the honors. For this organization boasts the most nimble-fingered man and woman who ever attacked a ball of yarn with the well-known needles.

Five sweaters are just a good day's work for Mrs. Julia Schweikhardt, at the right. And if the Red Cross has some emergency calls for clothing, she can turn out half a dozen pairs of socks for good measure. No, she never drops a stitch.

August Brodeen, left, admits that he holds the sock, scarf and sweater record for the male knitters of the tested ether. Given his pipe and favorite chair, he can threaten even the laurels of Mrs. Schweikhardt when he's "going good."

"How do we do it?" chorus the woolen athletes. "Why, we just tend to our knitting!"

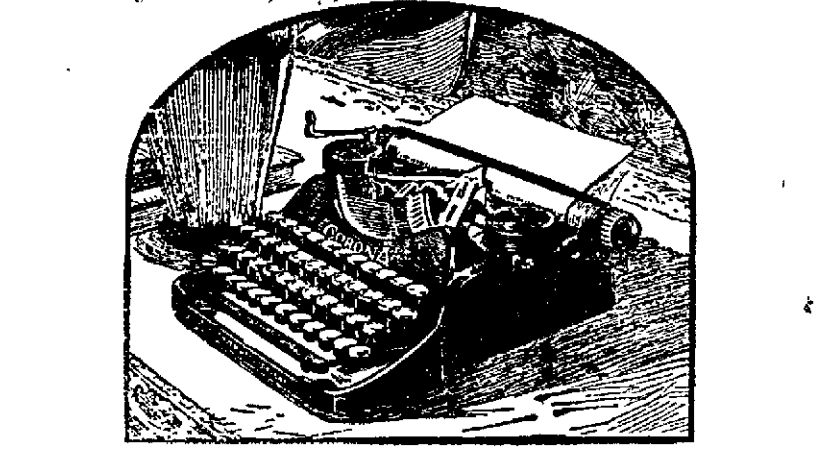

Household Hints

PLUS ELBOW GREASE
When scrubbing all woods or metals, use a damp but not too wet cloth as too much moisture prevents the friction that is necessary for good results.

CARE OF LINEOLEUM
Once a week, wipe up your linoleum with a cloth wet with part turpentine or kerosene and one part boiled linseed oil. If you have it varnished when new, and waxed lightly occasionally, it wears much longer.

SUMMER CEREALS
In summertime cooked cereals are much more interesting combined with fresh fruit or berries than without. Stir in half a cup of any kind of berries to every cup of cooked cereal just a few minutes before serving.

FEAR EPIDEMIC OF DIPHTHERIA; CALL OFF YULE PROGRAM

Discovery of Two Cases of Disease Causes Apprehension in Kaukauna

Kaukauna—The program planned by the music department of the Kaukauna High school for Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium was called off Monday afternoon as a precaution against a possible diphtheria epidemic in this city. At a conference of the city health officer, Dr. W. N. Nolan and J. F. Cavasough, superintendent of schools, it was decided that it would be taking too great a chance to hold the program since two cases of diphtheria among school children have been reported in the city. One child was found to be a carrier of the disease and although he is not ill himself he is capable of giving the disease to others. The family was quarantined early Monday morning. Every precaution possible will be taken by the city health department to prevent spread of the disease. Parents are urged to watch their children and upon the first complaint of sore throats they should consult a doctor.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save 32, and yet have best cough medicine you ever had.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiac, which has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Ind.

Oliver Seybold of Madison and Miss Lillian Seybold of Appleton are home for their Christmas vacation.

Oscar Dix and Sam Jansch were callers at Green Bay Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jansch have gone to Woodville to visit their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jansch.

Mrs. Oscar Dix made a business trip to Manitowoc on Monday.

Only $125 Added To Good Fellows Club Fund Monday

Good Fellows Club

I am enclosing $..... as my membership fee in the 1926 Good Fellows club. I understand that this money is to be used for the relief of the poor in Appleton.

(Bring or mail this coupon with your membership fee to the Good Fellow Club, care of the Post-Crescent. Make checks payable to Good Fellows Club).

Another day has gone by and only $125 was added to the Good Fellows Christmas fund for the poor. Never before has this fund grown so slowly and it appears as if Appleton people have forgotten their unfortunate neighbors in the enjoyment of prosperity. Business in the stores seems to indicate that people have money, for it is being spent in large quantities but there seems to be very little for the poor. How can those people who are spending so much for themselves enjoy Christmas when they could have given a little to the poor but did not?

The list of Good Fellows contains just a few more than 200 names. There are many, many hundreds more people in Appleton whose names should be on the roll. There still are three days to join the club. Clip the coupon as you read this and send it with your membership fee to the Good Fellows club, care of the Post-Crescent.

CATLIN HAS COACHED BLUES TO 7 TITLES IN 11 SEASONS

Returning Blue Mentor Has Had Gridiron Squad In Running Every Year

Old Maroon All-American
Gave Blue 4 Straight With Uncrossed Goal

"Records speak louder than words." That slogan which is being adopted more and more by the great universities and colleges of the country in this, the twentieth century, when they choose their athletic coaches, may well be used when speaking of Mark S. Catlin, who will return as mentor of Lawrence college's grid squad next fall. For in 11 years of coaching at the local school, Mark has never failed to turn out a team that was not in the running for the state title until the last game of the season. In that 11 years, Catlin-coached Blue squads have won five clear titles and tied for the honors twice more, seven title teams in eleven. And the other four years the Blues lost the title in the final game against real foes.

Catlin began his great athletic career in 1912 at the University of Chicago. He played four years of varsity football in 1912-13-14-15. In 1915 the squad of which he was captain won the conference championship by upsetting one of Coach Fielding Yost's great teams. Catlin also starred as a hurdler on Maroon track squads.

After that the Blue mentor was a professor at Iowa university for four years, coaching the Hawkeye griders for the latter three years. He came to Lawrence in 1919 as coach and mentor, and in that year lost the state title in the final game on a snowy Waukesha field. In 1921 the Blues tied for the title with Beloit for the state title, making their first championship in a year. In 1922 the title was a joint affair. The next three years Blue teams always were eliminated for titles in the final game. In 1927 Catlin resigned but the material developed by him went on to another title in 1928 when the Blues took the R. O. C. college championship and won the state title. In 1929 the R. O. C. team was quartered in each state college.

By popular demand Catlin came back to Lawrence in the fall of 1924 and immediately developed another state and Little Five title team in 1925. This team lost the title to Carroll in the final game on a snowy Waukesha field, 9-2. Last season, with all breaks against him at the start he drove his squad through the remainder of a schedule to tie Carroll for the state title and to remain undefeated in the Wisconsin-Illinois tour though in with two ties on the road. In 1925 his team was the only one to score on Carroll.

Catlin is identified by even strangers on the grid field by his black slouch hat, his slouching walk, his slow drawl and his shaggy eyebrows, famous over the years and set for the deeds performed by his former in turning out great grid squads.

Since returning to Lawrence in 1924, the Blue mentor has become better known for two football reforms which he strongly advocated. Catlin-coached teams have gone without pads for the last three years and during that time the teams have not taken a minute time out for injuries during games. Mr. Catlin believes that pads are an unnecessary evil, that his players by hard work can become so hardened that pads are unnecessary and that they stand up against any padded team in the west. The absence of pads also obviously increases the speed of the team by lightening its burden. As "the proof of the pudding is in the eating," the record of Catlin's teams for no time outs for injuries, plus two state titles in the last three years, is bringing other coaches to try his "padding" system.

The other reform advocated by the Blue mentor is a no-scouting proposition and it had its fruits for the first time this season when Coe and Lawrence came to an agreement before their games not to scout each other. In the east many teams are dropping the idea which costs much money each year. Coach Catlin believes that football is a game of players, not coaches, and that its problems should be thought out by the youths on the field and not by the coaches.

Thus the Blue mentor is in favor of abolishing scouting of rival teams for the benefit of the players who should think out the problems of attack and defense for themselves. To further back his idea the Blue mentor is waiting for the 1927 schedule to be completed. Then he will write each coach of rival teams requesting him to come to an agreement to refrain from scouting this year. Lawrence will not send out a scout if the rival agrees not to scout the Blues.

One of Catlin's ideas will be in force this next fall, the Blue mentor believes. A class in fundamentals, perhaps an hour in length, will be met by the regular players and will meet regularly like other college classes. Thus when the Blue warriors assemble for practice, the coaches will go ahead with the harder work earlier in the year and have their men further developed at the same date as previous falls. Fundamental will be stressed in the classroom and they will receive as much attention on the field. The men will be taught to think and "use their brains" in a football class before they even see a ball.

SKATE CHAMP

CLEM KITZINGER

Winners of the beautiful cups offered by the Appleton Post-Crescent to Appleton city champion skaters each year are culling up their blades and working out in preparation for the 1927 championship races which will be held on Sunday, Jan. 16 at Jones park. As usual medals will be awarded the winners in each class and a trophy will be awarded the high point winner. A trophy also probably will go to the winner of the champions race, inaugurated last year. In this event all former city champions battle for new honors. Clem Kitzinger, city champ in 1925, expects to be a strong contender in this event. Another city champ who will enter is Percy Sharp, captain of Appleton's roller league hockey squad. Joe Sharp and Bill Tappert, other winners, are not in the city this year.

West Bend is leading the league at present with three victories and no defeats to its credit. Providing the K. C. Athletics with Koll and Pope working in at forwards Williams at center and Coepe and Schuele at the guards can turn the trick they will step into first place along with the West Bend outfit. In last week's game the West Bend squad defeated the Fond du Lac team 24 to 19; while Sheboygan handily beat Washington a trimming winning a close battle 32 to 21. Two Rivers was defeated by Plymouth in another close one, 33 to 34, while the K. C. Athletics handed Kohler a defeat, 33 to 22. Manitowoc was the only league team not to participate in a game the past week.

TUESDAY GAMES
S—Galpin Hardware vs Riverside.
9—Coated Paper vs Fox River Paper.

SATURDAY GAMES
7:30—Citizens Bank vs Kimberly-Clark.

8:45—Kaukauna Y vs Co. D.

One of the most important battles of the 1927 Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball league is scheduled for 9 o'clock Tuesday evening when the undefeated Fox River Paper crew clashes with the Coated Paper men. The Coated crew showed a much improved team Saturday night when it trounced the Riverside men and is ready to give the heavy Baetzmen a hard battle.

After losing a hard fought game to the strong Galpins the Coated men, strengthened by the return of Eggert, regular guard, trounced the Riversides, 23-9. Without the services of Stevens, the Baetzmen were only able to trip the Riversides, with Courtney in the lineup, 20-14, in the opener. Then the Baetzmen tripped the Galpins in a tough struggle, 18-11. The Coated lost to the Galpin men, 18-12. Comparative scores give neither team an edge, though both have played the same two squads thus far, the Baetzmen winning both games and the Coated crew splitting even. The Fox River squad is given a slight edge because of its superior height and weight though the Coated crew has shown a greater improvement between games.

A win for the Coated men will tie them with the Fox Rivers for second place, putting the Kimberly-Clark squad of Kimberly alone on top. A win for the Fox River will keep that squad in the double tie for the top and will shoot the Coated crew down to sixth in the standings.

In the second game the Galpin Hardware are slight favorites over the Riversides, who have failed to win a game in spite of a close battle with the strong Fox Rivers. The Riverside crew lost, 20-14, and the Hard-waremen lost to the Baetzmen, 18-11.

Saturday evening's games may be postponed because of Christmas night and played at a later date, it was announced. If not the Citizens Bank and Kimberly-Clark crews will meet in the opener, another game where a team a game to the rear will tackle a league leader in an attempt to haul it from the top rung's games night are favorites. The Kaukauna Y squad also is favored to take the measure of the Co. D crew in the second battle at 8:45.

The girls beat the Kaukauna squad by 93 pins in taking three games. G. Goerner of the Appleton squad had high game of the battle with a 290 as well as high series of 547. For the Kaws A. Graef had a 190 for high game and H. Charneau had high series of 539. No other 200 games were rolled.

In the Neenah match, 200 games were frequent. Peck of Neenah had high game of the battle, a 245 and his 200 also was high series mark. For the Appleton hunt M. Tarnow was high with a 193 game and a 491 series. The Neenah squad was victorious. Two hundred scores were attained by Woehner of Neenah, with 200-245, Kinkle, a teammate, 201-204, and Henning, also of Neenah, 222.

SIGNS CONTRACT

MARK S. CATLIN

Coach of the 1926 Lawrence college grid team, which tied Carroll for the state title, who will return to coach the 1927 squad in its drive for more honors for the Blue. Coach Catlin received an increase in salary in his new contract but will devote more time to the Bluebushs in the coming campaign next fall.

HORNSBY IS TRADED TO GIANTS FOR RING AND FRANK FRISCH

Man Who Lead Cards to First Pennant Failed to Agree on Contract

New York.—(G)—The biggest deal in modern baseball history, involving players whose diamond worth is estimated at more than half a million dollars, brings Rogers Hornsby of the world's champion Cardinals to share the metropolitan spotlight with Babe Ruth.

The transaction was completed Monday night over the telephone after Hornsby and President Sam Breadon of the St. Louis team had failed to bridge a gap resulting from Rogers' demand for a three-year contract. After the Cardinals' president had refused to meet Hornsby's demand, the Cardinals' president had refused to meet Hornsby's demand.

Baseballmen Tuesday insisted that Hornsby was worth more to the Giants than the two players McGraw gave in exchange—infielder Frankie Frisch and pitcher Jimmy Ring. They maintained that a cash payment of at least $500,000 in addition to Frisch and Ring would be required to satisfy the Cardinals. President Breadon and Charles A. Stoneham of the Giants denied, however, that any money payment had been involved. Hornsby's value is estimated at $350,000.

According to President Stoneham, Breadon broached the trade to him suggesting Frisch and Ring in payment.

PEPPARD ELIGIBLE FOR COURT SEASON

Star Manitowoc Guard Returns to Squad After Two Months Rest

Manitowoc.—Manitowoc high school basketball stock rose to a new high here Saturday night with the announcement that Danny Peppard, veteran basketball regular for three years who for more than two months has been ineligible because of academic difficulties, had been declared eligible, having successfully negotiated this quarter's grade with the result that all his marks are now within the grade required by the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association. Upon being declared eligible, Peppard for the first time donned a Red and white uniform and went through practice games with the squad at the high school gymnasium. He took but little part in the actual scrimmage which the first and second squads engaged in.

Coach John altered his starting lineup a trifle last night, replacing Hughes at center with Lenz, Fischbeck and Capt. Brennan played the forwards and Fisch and Wilda the guards with Lenz and Wilda then playing the center of the floor.

On each he took seven shots, losing enough strokes to boost his final card to 307.

Jack Mackenzie, Kenosha pro, playing on his home course, defending the title he had held for two successive years, and favored to repeat, tied for third place with Francis Gallett, the dapper Blue Mound tutor. They counted 310.

Allis counted 314 for the rounds, 10 shots behind Bock.

The triumph at Kenosha was not Bock's only noteworthy accomplishment. In the northeastern Wisconsin championship, defending the title, Bock came through to the final, losing a thrilling 19-hole battle to Ken Dickinson, a home club entrant.

Ken Dickinson Rated Fifth Best Golfer In State Amateur Circles

Billy Sixty Selects Annual Honor Roll; Bock, Sheboygan, on Top

Kenneth Dickinson, Appleton golf star and present Northeastern Wisconsin amateur champ, rates fifth on an honor roll of state golfers for 1925-26 picked by Billy Sixty, golf expert of the Milwaukee Journal. Each year Sixty selects an honor list of 10 Wisconsin amateurs who in his opinion were outstanding on state links during the season. It is a feature of Sixty's ranking that several men who placed prominently two years ago failed to get on the latest list.

Adolph "Buster" Bock, state open champion and a strong contender in the amateur meet where Dickinson was runner-up, is given top honors. The Sheboygan boy, also a member of the N. E. W. G. A. to which two local clubs are affiliated, was 1925 Northeastern champ and runner-up to Dickinson this year when the local man took the title in a 19-hole battle.

The honor roll rates Bock, first; E. P. "Ned" Allis, Milwaukee, second; Irvin Peterson, Racine, third; George Madushaw, Delaford, fourth; Dickinson, John Russell, Milwaukee, fifth; Sandborn, Madison; Dave Gernon, Madison; Phil Adler, Milwaukee; Eddie Hayden, Milwaukee. Here's Billy's dope:

"Golf in Wisconsin presents an unusual situation this year in selecting the 10 ranking amateur players. In the past the honor of holding No. 1 position has gone undisputedly to the winner of the amateur championship, but this year I am awarding the place to A. B. C. (Buster) Bock, brilliant young Sheboygan Country club marksman.

Bock upset all predictions by capturing the highly prized state open crown, the first amateur to accomplish this.

It was Allis who eliminated Bock in the amateur test at Ozaukee, yet that victory is more than offset by Bock's sparkling performance at Kenosha in the open. His defeat by Allis was sustained in an 18-hole encounter and in my opinion 18-hole matches are more or less a matter of breaks. No doubt to Allis is intended, because he won purely on the soundness of his game—he outplayed Bock in that particular match.

It was his high in the amateur test, and his 2 to 1 failure against Allis that had much to do with Bock's later successes.

One department of his game he found to be woefully weak at Ozaukee and that one little defect really beat him. He couldn't handle his short approaches, chips from the edge of the green. He knew it and it had its effect on him. When a player shakes his entire game, and it did that with Bock, Allis, a master of the short approach, came 'round in a good enough 75 to win.

With the amateur meet out of the way, the scene next shifted to the hilly, treacherous Kenosha Country club acres. And there Bock rose to heights unparalleled in state links history.

Beating a group of professionals is a big task wherever it may be, for when you're playing pros you're meeting the "finished product" of the links. It's seldom an amateur breaks through. One of the pros is usually going well enough to uphold the honor and playing dignity of his class.

The weather had much to do with the failure of the Kenosha amateurs. On the morning of the first day a wild, irritable wind came a-whirling over the fairways and so aroused the Scotch temperaments of most of the entrants that they all too soon were fighting among themselves and the little white ball as well.

One cannot do this in golf. Nothing is more destructive than a temper that's easily ruffled.

The pros kept going from bad to worse and they slipped the wind increased its howl. If enjoying the collapse of the golden monarchs.

COLORED CAGE TEAM PLAYS IN VICINITY

National Negro Champs Appear at Little Chute, Kaukauna, Neenah

Cago teams in Little Chute, Kaukauna and Neenah will play host to the famous Giles Post, national colored basketball team, this winter, according to an announcement from the manager of the colored squad.

Other towns in this state that they expect to visit are Celarburg, Sheboygan, Port Washington, Manitowoc, Two Rivers, Oconto, Marinette, Lena, Plymouth, Fond du Lac, Clintonville, Beloit, Sparta, Rockland and La Crosse.

Giles Post is composed of members of the old Eighth Illinois and a number of the nation's most famous colored athletes including "Dick" Hudson, the former Creighton university star who played this season with the Providence, R. I., "Steamrollers." Lillard,

George Madushaw, former Blue Mound caddy, new to tournament golf, made a bold bid for state supremacy, losing to Peterson in the semi-finals, and then proceeded to annex the county title, two feats that entitle him to fourth honors.

Ken Dickinson relinquished his state crown only after a battle to the final green with Phil Sandborn of Madison in which Sandborn shot a 71 to the Appleton star's 72, and this, linked with Dickinson's win in the northeastern test, merits fifth position.

John (Buddy) Russell lost an extra-hole battle to Madushaw in the second round of the state amateur, played well in the open and exhibited a game all season that was generally sound enough to earn sixth position.

Sandborn's rank is awarded on the strength of his great golf against Dickinson, and his succeeding victories over Jack Pring of Tripoli, Clyde Pishon of Bay View, together with the game battle he gave Allis in the semi-finals of the state test. For a time it appeared Sandborn would add Allis to his list of victims but after being two up at the turn he gradually weakened and lost by a 2 and 1 score.

Young Dave Gernon, a clubmate of Sandborn at Maple Bluff, Madison, reigning junior state champ, is eighth, and well he deserves the place. Gernon qualified in the state meet with a 77, beautiful golf, but withdrew to cope with entreats of his own age. In the junior finals he turned in a 72, two over par, showing what possibilities this Madison lad has.

Because he qualified nicely and reached the second round in the state amateur tourney, after winning the professional-amateur test of the state open with W. R. Lovekin, Phil Adler of the Woodmont club is placed ninth. Incidentally, Adler repeated in the Woodmont championship in quite simple manner.

On the strength of his fine 1925 record, his state amateur 76 quashing total and his success in the Milwaukee title event, Eddie Hayden is given the tenth bracket of the honor ranking.

CORNERS TEAM BEATS CO. D IN LAST RALLY

Two baskets in the final minutes of play gave Bill Meltz's Valley Queen cagers of Twelve Corners a hard-fought victory over Co. D cagers of Appleton Sunday night at Twelve Corners, the home boys winning by a 19-17 count. The Corners crew lead at the half 14-7 but the final quarter Co. D pulled a rally which placed it a point in the lead with three minutes to go.

Crabbe and Muenster starred for the Guardians while every man on the home team played a steady game. Wednesday evening the Corners crew battles Shiocton at Twelve Corners in a return battle. A few weeks ago the Shiocton boys were forced to take a one-point beating from the Meltz squad at Shiocton and the game is expected to be a tough battle with the visitors fighting to average the defeat. Dunn, former Appleton high center, plays with Shiocton.

Sunday, Seymour, the only team to beat the Corners crew this year, will play a return game at Twelve Corners with the home team primed for revenge. Seymour won by a basket at Seymour. The Corners men claimed that the loss was due to the unwillingness of the home team to change its suits, which were the same color as those of the visitors.

HOOPER CIGAR PINMEN WIN FROM TELULAH MEN

Hoopers Cigars bowling squad took two games of a match with the Telulah Wildcats Sunday on the Arcade alleys, taking the match by 204 pins. R. Greason was the star of the match with a 277 high game and a 627 series. For the Hoopers G. Horn had high game of 201 and O. Sternagle had high series of 516. No other 200 games were rolled.

THE CIGARS took the first game by 146 maps and added 101 in the second. In the third game the Wildcats came back to win with a 63 pin win.

EVEN WOOD SOUGHT AS ANOTHER FUEL FOR AUTOMOBILES

Baking Process Reduces Wood to Weak Gas to Form Practical Power

While emphasis is being placed on the importance of coal as a source of our future automotive fuel supply, engineers aren't overlooking the least opportunity from other sources.

They have gone so far as to consider the uses of wood and straw as direct means for obtaining power for our automobiles.

The U. S. Bureau of Standards is not to be outdone in foresight, for it even today is studying a French invention which utilizes wood as direct fuel for automobiles. It has also been experimenting with straw, seeking whatever power this product may have in the form of an alcoholic fuel.

Probability of the use of these materials is far removed. Although our oil supply is thinning, our coal resources are so vast that engineers figure they will not be depleted for centuries to come. Out of coal comes valuable fuel oils, as well as other important products.

NO OIL, LITTLE COAL.
But France has practically no oil within its entire domain, colonies included, and must rely already on the comparatively little coal it owns for its domestic fuel supply. Italy is even in worse shape, with no oil and low coal resources.

It is therefore here that wood is being tested as the next best bet. The invention now in the hands of the U. S. Bureau of Standards, reduces wood by a baking process into a weak gas which, when mixed with air, forms a practical fuel mixture for automobiles. It is much weaker than gasoline, but less costly, and at least a good thing to depend upon in case of emergency.

Australia is making intensive studies of the use of wood and straw for their fuel possibilities. Australia has been importing oil for fuel to an increasing extent. Substitutes, therefore, are much desired.

Out of the cellulose in the straw, about 50 gallons of power alcohol can be obtained from a ton of the straw.

FUN TO PREVAIL AT WOMANS CLUB PARTY

Not one serious-minded business or professional woman will attend the Christmas Frolic of the Appleton Business and Professional Womens club at Appleton Womens clubhouse at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening. The affair is to be a fun party and each member will leave all her serious thoughts at home.

The Appleton club has more new members this year than any other club in the state. Each meeting has brought more new people into the organization and the Christmas party will be a jolly initiation.

Reservations for the dinner are to be made before Monday night.

A ton of dry wood could yield about 50 to 60 gallons of the same fuel.

With the immense production of wheat in that country and the vast timber territory there, it is believed that necessity could force the substitution of automotive fuels from these products, more than to offset the requirements.

Cellulose is reduced to power alcohol by the use of strong sulphuric acid and the subsequent action of yeast fermentation.

French, as well as other engineers, have been studying the possibilities of the anhydrous alcohols, the power alcohol obtained from coal as well as straw and wood. Methyl alcohol especially has been found highly effective as a fuel, when mixed in a certain proportion with gasoline.

It has been found to eliminate detonation, to afford greater power at lower temperature, permit more flexible operation at varying speeds, and to keep the motor in good working condition.

CAPITOL TO HEAR OF SNOW REMOVAL

Expect Legislature Will Face Much Influence on Road Problem

With motorists throughout the state clamoring for snow removal, legislation reports from Madison indicate that the 1927 session of the legislature will face a considerable amount of influence seeking that main state roads be kept open during the

Campus Rebels

by Virginia Swain

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
JUDITH MARTIN, a young instructor in Pendleton State University, is in hot water with DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN, because of her flirtation with ERIC WATERS, student radical leader.

DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor, admires Judith and tries to bring peace between her and the dean.
MYRA ALDRICH is jealous of Judith.

"KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, tries to blackmail Mrs. Brown, and Judith befriends her. Eric promises to silence Shea.

Shea's body is found just after the Christmas holidays, in a creek, with a letter addressed to Eric in his pocket. Eric is arrested as a material witness.

Mrs. Brown, the dean's wife, secures his release by providing an outlandish alibi.

Dr. Dorn tries to persuade Judith to take part in the dean's mammoth reform campaign, to clean up the entire campus. While they are arguing, Eric intrudes, half drunk. Dorn throws him out.

While Judith is talking with Eric, Gerhart, a young widow, and friend of the radicals, Dr. Dorn and Eric fight in the road outside Eve's house, but are separated by passersby.

When Judith gets home, Eric is waiting for her. She goes for a ride with him, and that night, NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV
Judith's breath caught in her throat. Her eyes were on Eric's face. He sat motionless, meeting her gaze.

"Marry you?" she said, at last. "You're mad."

Eric shook his head. His eyes still held hers, stubbornly.

Frightened by the intensity of his gaze, Judith laughed, nervously. "Why, Eric, you know we couldn't do that. It's an insane idea. You're joking, aren't you?"

Again he shook his head. "The clerk is waiting. I told his wife he'd be there by midnight."

This time there was a note of anger in Judith's laughter. "You seemed quite sure of me, Eric. After all, it's MY wedding you're planning."

Eric tossed his head. "Stop stalling. Judith. We're not concerned with formalities. We both know you're going to marry me in the end. I want you to be with me, shoulder to shoulder, in this fight I've got ahead of me."

Judith looked at him anxiously. "What fight, Eric?"

He tossed the question aside. "That will wait. The issue right now is the wedding. I tell you the clerk is in his office waiting."

His manner changed from impetuosity to pleading. "Why don't you give up these useless protests and come along Jude?"

Judith laughed. "I'm afraid a marriage between us would be anything but peaceful. Eric, we've quarreled ever since we met."

"Well," he answered smiling. "We've had a lot of fun too. Listen Jude, I promised that clerk twenty-five dollars to wait for us."

"I'd hate to make you lose twenty-five dollars. But, after all, you earned twenty dollars by kissing me once—so we're almost square." She laughed.

"That wasn't sporting of you, Jude," he said. "Heaven knows I've regretted that but deeply enough without you rubbing it in."

"Regretted it?" Judith mocked. The next moment Eric had seized her and kissed her again and again until she lay helpless and almost smothered against his shoulder.

Then he drew away roughly. "You should have known better than to tease me just now."

Very meekly, Judith straightened her hat and sat up against the back of the seat.

Eric was reaching for the gear shift lever. She watched him fascinatingly, while he shot it into low. "Go into reverse," said Judith. "I—I can't go to Earlham with you, Eric."

Without a word, he shifted to obey her. The car wheeled and edged in the narrow road and finally shot out into the road toward home.

Judith sank into the deep silence of the surrounding countryside. She mused her hand stealthily so that she could touch the shaggy, tobacco-scented overcoat beside her. Eric did not notice. She determinedly slipped her hand under his arm.

The lights of the town were winking into sight, when at last he turned to her. "You're all beasts of prey, you women. You want to catch us, whether you eat us or not. You won't marry me, but you must keep me captivated. Turn me down cold one minute, and the next, madden me with little caresses which cost you nothing but tighten my chains."

"I'm sick of it." He lifted her hand from his arm. "I'm still in love with you. God help me, but I'll not be ruled by you any longer. From now on I live my own life, fight my own fights and devil take the hindmost."

Judith spoke coldly. "Since when have you been ruled by me, Eric? I hadn't supposed you were following my wishes when you drank and battled and picked up trouble generally."

He almost snorted in his rage. "When I battled, you were glad. You gloated over my fight with Dorn tonight. It was just another sign to your vanity. You're not out of the jungle yet, you women. I suppose you'd only have liked it better if one of us had killed the other."

His last words checked the angry reply on Judith's lips. "What on earth do you mean?" she asked. "Why should I be interested in your bravado?"

He looked at her. "Because this particular brawl happened to be over you."

"Over me?" Judith's brows drew together. "What do you mean?"

Eric was driving nonchalantly. "I'll not tell you any more. It would only make you unhappy."

Judith sat back. They were entering Pendleton now, and the houses sat darkly on either side of the street. "Must be almost midnight," he said casually. "I suppose you have your key?"

She nodded.

"Tomorrow's a big day for me," he said, with an air of making conversation. "It's the climax of my fight. Sorry I can't tell you any more. I had hoped that you'd stand by me."

Judith's face softened. "Eric, don't plunge into anything insane. I don't know what you are planning. But I'm afraid for you. I'm really awfully fond of you."

YOUR CHANGE, MR. MAN!

Jimmy-Johnny-Henry—we don't know just what his name is—but that face! Wouldn't you get a big kick out of examining his stocking full of joy on Christmas eve? Sure you would. You can do it by joining the Good Fellows club. There are a lot of youngsters like this in Appleton and they are looking to you to prove there is a Santa Claus.

LAWRENCE PROFESSOR WILL DISCUSS PAPER

Dr. Peter Dorn was waiting in the Stegway parlor when Judith reached home. He rose and held out his hand.

Judith came in slowly, giving him a questioning glance. "How do you do, Dr. Dorn?"

"I've come," he said, "to make an apology."

"An apology?" she inquired coolly. "What have you done to require one?"

Dr. Dorn twisted his hat. "It's not so much for anything I've done, as for something I've thought."

She watched him, wholly mystified. "I asked Waters about it last night. You see, I was passing the house one night last fall, and I saw a man climbing down the trellis from your room."

Judith threw her head up. "And you thought—"

The professor bowed his head. "Yes," he said, miserably, "I did."

(To Be Continued)
Dr. Dorn so far has been pretty much of a blunderer. In the next chapter he makes a startling proposal.

TAX COLLECTION STARTS DEC. 30, SAYS TREASURER

Taxpayers Are Urged to Bring 1925 Tax Receipts With Them

Appleton's 1925 tax roll will be collected between Thursday, Dec. 30, 1926, and Monday, Jan. 31, 1927, Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, announced Monday. Collection will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning on the opening day in the treasurer's office at the city hall.

Taxes may be paid during this period between 9 and 12 o'clock in the morning and 1:15 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon on every day except Saturday and Sunday. On Saturday office hours will be maintained in the morning only, while the office will of course be closed all day Sunday. Taxes will not be collected Saturday afternoons because it would be impossible for the treasurer to bank the money before Monday. The office will be open however between 7 and 8 o'clock every Monday evening in January.

The opening day for collection was set in December to allow those so desiring an opportunity to pay their taxes in 1926. Many prefer to include tax payments in their books for the year in which they are levied, it was pointed out by the city treasurer.

All taxpayers are asked to bring their 1925 tax receipts with them when they appear at the treasurer's office. Much time and inconvenience will be saved if everybody complies with this request, according to Mr. Bachman. A description of real estate owned by the taxpayer, including the ward, plat or addition, and lot and block in which the property is located, must be had by the city treasurer before taxes can be paid, and the full description is contained on the receipts.

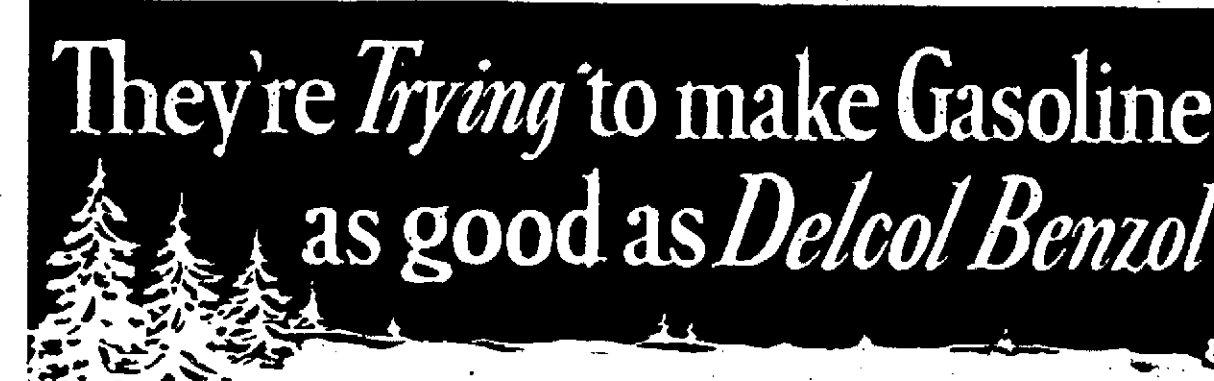

Possession of the receipts also gives the taxpayer the opportunity to make an instant comparison of his 1926 taxes with those of the preceding year.

All taxes are payable without fees to and including Jan. 31, 1927, according to Mr. Bachman. After that date a 2 per cent collection fee will be added. All unpaid personal property and income taxes on Feb. 1, 1927, will be placed in the hands of the police department for collection.

Persons having an income and personal property tax must pay both, the city treasurer reminded. The personal property offset was repealed in 1925. In order to accommodate taxpayers in as short a time as possible, the treasurer will be assisted by Walter Zschachner, building inspector, during the collection period. The amount of taxes to be collected from individual property holders is not yet available at the city treasurer's office. This information will not be ready until after Christmas, Mr. Bachman reported Monday.

They're Trying to make Gasoline as good as Delcol Benzol

It is a great tribute to benzol motor fuel that gasoline refiners are striving with all their might to duplicate motor benzol's characteristics in gasoline. They are trying to develop a gasoline that will have Delcol Benzol's easy starting qualities, its remarkable anti-knock properties, its greater mileage economy, smoother firing, and other advantages.

Today benzol motor fuel is the measuring stick by which gasoline standards are established. But only Delcol Benzol can give Delcol Benzol performance. This better motor fuel actually does what gasoline refiners claim for good gasoline. Gasoline can never do what Delcol Benzol does, because this fuel is a scientific blend of highly refined benzol and highest gasoline, combining the best qualities of both fuels in such a way as to get results that neither fuel, alone, can produce.

When you buy motor fuel, don't be satisfied with something that's nearly as good as the product it strives to imitate. Why buy gasoline when you might just as well enjoy the advantages of Delcol Benzol? — and at no greater cost than any good grade of gasoline.

They're trying to make gasoline as good as Delcol Benzol—but until they succeed, Delcol Benzol will continue to do what gasoline CANNOT!

EXPERT DISCUSSES NEEDS OF DAIRY HERD AT INSTITUTE

START WITH GOOD STOCK AND BUILD UP, IMIG ADVISES

Warns of Need to Preserve Quality of Products by Proper Care of Animals

BY W. F. WINSEY

Matters vital to the financial success of every dairyman in the state, and necessary for the welfare and productivity of his herd were discussed Friday morning at the farmers' institute at Bay Settlement. Mr. Imig first devoted his attention to the building up of the dairy herd, and later spoke on methods essential to the production of clean milk.

GOOD HERDS VITAL

"More than 50 per cent of Wisconsin farmers call themselves dairymen. More than 50 per cent of the total income of Wisconsin farmers is from dairying. No subject has been discussed in Wisconsin farmer institutes during the past 40 years has held the interest of farmers as has building up the dairy herd. Many dairymen insist that this subject should be on every institute program. The first step in building up a dairy herd is deciding what breed of cattle to keep. The notion that a man should keep the breed of cattle he likes best is all wrong. He should keep the breed of cattle suited to his purpose. There is so much difference of opinion concerning the relative merits of the different dairy breeds of cattle that it is not advisable for institute men to take sides in this matter," Mr. Imig told his audience.

ERADICATE DISEASE

Every dairyman should know that his herd is free from tuberculosis and when it is free from this dread disease, it should be kept so by testing at intervals of not more than two years. Many herds are being tested every year.

FOODS SHOULD BE LARGE FOR THE CALVES

"To secure size, calves should be fed liberally and heifers should not freshen till they are well grown. A good dairy herd should be a good type. Every breed has its standard of types. This standard should be obtained and followed. The way to have an approved type is to keep a sire of approved type. Three good sires used in succession should produce a good herd. The best essential in building up a dairy herd is production. A man might have 20 cows of the same size, age and breed and all feel alike and some would produce twice as much as others. The owner of cows should know from use of Babcock test and scales how much each cow is producing per year and so far as it is practical the herd should be culled on the basis of known production. The most dependable way of determining production is through cow testing associations.

PRODUCTION NECESSARY

"The best essential in building up a dairy herd is production. A man might have 20 cows of the same size, age and breed and all feel alike and some would produce twice as much as others. The owner of cows should know from use of Babcock test and scales how much each cow is producing per year and so far as it is practical the herd should be culled on the basis of known production. The most dependable way of determining production is through cow testing associations.

PRESERVE QUALITY

"Paying the producer a satisfactory price, is the last step in the process of producing and marketing dairy products," declared Mr. Imig in his talk on producing clean milk. The first step is producing clean milk from healthy cows. Most Wisconsin dairymen produce clean wholesome milk, but many of them do not. The poor milk is mixed with the good milk at the factory and the all of it is not as good as it should be. High quality in dairy products checks consumption and so lowers the price the producer receives.

There is an old saying that you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink. It is also true that you can make better cheese but you can't make people buy it.

"The world can get along very nicely without cheese. It is not a regular and necessary article of diet, like bread, potatoes and meat. Nor is butter a necessary article of diet. There are substitutes for butter.

"The way to raise the price of butter and cheese is to increase consumption through quality products. This can be said of every pound of butter and cheese manufactured. If it is of high quality, it creates a demand for another pound of the same product. If it is of inferior quality, it may kill the demand for that product."

Quality milk begins in the cow yard. The yard should be clean and well drained. Manure should not be allowed to accumulate in the cow yard, especially in summer, according to Mr. Imig. The stable floor should be about a foot above the yard level. This allows good drainage away from the stable door. Stables should be clean, light and well ventilated. There is no excuse for having stables dark. Glass is just as cheap as masonry. White wash is cheap and is quickly and easily applied, and it should be used freely. Stable floors should be of concrete. Dirt and plank floors should not be tolerated, he said.

Low stables should not be too long. Four feet and six or eight inches is about right for Guernseys and four feet, ten inches or five feet is about right for Friesians. Gutters should be wide and deep. Sixteen inches wide and 10 inches deep next to the driveway

FREIGHT RATES FORM NATURAL BARRIER TO DISTANT SHIPMENTS

Detroit—Freight rates from a natural barrier to large shipments of milk from one section of the country to another, says Charles Staff, executive secretary of the Larrowe Institute of Animal Economics.

"The western farmer cannot successfully compete with the eastern dairyman in the sale of milk in the eastern territory," Staff explains, "because the difference in the cost of producing milk in one section as compared to another can never be so great as to make importations from a distance at high freight rates profitable."

CATTLE SHIPPERS PLAN MEETING TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Outagamie - co Association to Hold Meeting Wednesday at New London

Representatives of the Outagamie-co Livestock Shipping associations, county registrations of purebred stock breeders and others interested will meet Dec. 24 in the council chambers of New London for the purpose of putting the Outagamie County Livestock Shipping association on its feet and to breathe into it vigor and the inclination and the power to serve all stock breeders in the county, as well as those who come here from time to time to buy livestock, in an efficient manner.

The founders of the Outagamie County Livestock Shipping association held their first, real meeting in the Outagamie-co court house at Appleton on Nov. 7, 1925, their next meeting at the same point on June 3, 1926, the third on July 7, 1926 and the last one on July 23, 1926. So the New London meeting will represent the culmination of a series of the struggles of the dairy farmers to organize as all other producers have done, for their own protection and to meet the sharp trade developments of modern times, or at least to form an effective agency to market their own surplus animals.

At the last meeting of the founders of the new livestock shipping association, a constitution and a set of by-laws was adopted and a board of directors elected from shipping associations of the county. The board of directors was authorized to elect permanent officers for the association.

It, as a result of the New London meeting, the Outagamie County Livestock Breeders' association is given workable strength, authority and support, the farmers of the county will be able to act as a unit in any project where controversy and individual effort might blast the prospect of success. They will be able also to sell also their livestock at great advantage to themselves over present individual methods.

It is said that, under the present lack of a farmers' organization, prospective buyers of dairy cattle come here, register at a hotel, stay a short time and often go without finding out where the special kind of cattle they want is located. They inquire of the landowner where they can find Holstein Guernsey or Jersey grades or purebreds for sale, and as a result, they often leave the county disappointed. It is hoped that the new association will give better service to old buyers and, through advertising, Outagamie county cattle, at the special points, where there is a demand for such cattle, will be able to extend sales.

FISHING PARADISE

Wisconsin is developing eight new fish hatcheries with a capacity of more than 5,000,000 fish to enlarge its trout population. Six hatcheries already are providing 15,000,000 trout annually for Wisconsin waters.

LATE CORN DRYING

Determinations show that corn in Ohio has a moisture content of from 25 to 30 per cent and is a month late in drying.

OLD WAY STILL BEST

"Field experiments are still the only safe guide in choosing fertilizers for the corn crop," says Robert M. Salter, agronomist at the Ohio Experiment station.

There are 503,073,007 acres of improved farm land in the United States. This constitutes 52.6 per cent of the farm land in the country.

are desirable. If gutters are deep, cows will not stand with their hind feet in them.

There should be a good clipping machine on every dairy farm. Cows tails, udders and quarters should be clipped about once a month through the winter. Cows should be brushed as it is much easier to clean the skin when the hair is short. Stables should be provided with brooms as well as forks and shovels. Feed alleys and drive ways should be swept daily.

Plenty of bedding should be used and it should be forked around several times during the day. This should be the last job before leaving the stable at night. Milk utensils should be carefully washed, with plenty of hot water and a washing powder.

There should be a water system with a range boiler in the home of every dairyman unless he has something better to insure plenty of warm water, Mr. Imig said.

Cans should be put on a rack out of doors to air. Before they are used they should be rinsed, as the wind blows dust and dirt into them. Special attention should be given to straining the milk, the speaker pointed out. A filter strainer should be used. Milk should be removed from the stable promptly after milking and cooling. Foot by setting in a stock tank half full of warm water but by setting in ice water or water direct from the well. Warm water is a congenial home and breeding place for bacteria of various kinds.

KAVANAUGH TELLS FARMERS OF NEW TESTING METHOD

Describes System Invented by County Agent Amundson of Outagamie-co

BY W. F. WINSEY

Green Bay—After the cow testing apparatus, invented by Robert Amundson, county agent of Outagamie-co, was described by J. N. Kavanaugh, county agent of Brown-co to the farmers' institutes held last week at Way-side and Bay Settlement and the methods of operating it was explained in detail, a large percentage of the dairymen in the audience showed by their questions that they considered the Amundson invention a decided improvement over apparatus and methods now in use for testing cows. In fact, at the close of Mr. Kavanaugh's presentation of the subject, a number of dairymen made application over their signatures for membership in the cow testing association of Outagamie-co which is said to include 150 herds.

The apparatus exhibited and described by Mr. Kavanaugh consists of a small, strong box containing 15 bottles, each numbered from 1 to 15. The cows in a herd under test are also numbered from 1 to 15. That is to say, each cow in a herd of 15 is assigned a number and a bottle in the strong box bearing her number. The boxes are mailed to herd owners.

METHOD OF TEST

While a herd is under test, the milk of each cow is weighed by the dairyman at each milking and a record is made by him on blanks provided for that purpose. On a specified day each month a sample of the milk of cow No. 1 in a herd is placed in bottle No. 1 and so on throughout the herd. Samples and records sealed in the strong box and returned by mail to the laboratory of the tester, who has his laboratory in the basement of the county court house in Appleton.

After testing the samples and recording the results, the tester mails the sample bottles, his report for the month and suggestions for improvement back to the dairyman. The postage on the box is 9 cents.

Under the old plan of testing dairy herds, the aim of the tester is to have 30 herds in a cow testing association so that he may visit and test one herd each day of the month. He does his testing on the farm, makes his record and gets his lodging and meals there, especially when the roads were blocked to automobile traffic. He is required to travel over wide areas, the exact distance depending upon the shape of the association district, the number of herds in the district and the proportion of the farmers in the district who are members of the association and getting his service.

IS RELIABLE TEST

The Amundson plan of testing cows is reliable, the testing done in a well equipped laboratory and is economical because it involves no cost for traveling expenses of tester and no milk testing interruption of the regular work of the dairyman and his wife, no boarding and lodging of tester and no limit to the territory that may be served by a cow testing laboratory. Mr. Kavanaugh declared.

Many dairymen of Brown-co to whom Mr. Kavanaugh explained the cow testing methods of Outagamie-co are intensely interested and others, convinced, have already decided to try the Amundson invention, according to a report.

HOUSE FERN SPRAY

Scale insects that "attack" house ferns are repelled by frequent applications of a spray of common laundry soap, according to entomologists of the Oregon experiment station. One quarter pound soap is used to a gallon of water.

LIGHT SUPPLIES OF BUTTER FOR WEEK

Cheese Trading Fair; Hog and Cattle Prices Show Comparative Decline

Madison—(AP)—Butter markets were nominated by very light supplies of top grade butter during the last week, according to the weekly review of markets by the state department of markets.

"Trading was very active," the report said, "and arrivals were cleaned up. Buyers, however, operated cautiously, were critical as to quality and were inclined to be conservative regarding purchases. Several fractional price advances took place. Buying demand was fairly active on medium grades. Arrivals from Denmark and New Zealand have been a factor in supplying fancy butter. Centralized car market supplies were limited. Butter prices are about 8 cents higher than last year at this time. "Trading in cheese was generally fair and supplies were limited. It is reported that Wisconsin's trade output of recent weeks has exceeded the receipts at warehouses by a considerable margin. This caused a decrease in the available stocks on hand, and on Dec. 4, Wisconsin's holdings were slightly under the corresponding week last year. Cheese prices are slightly higher than last year at this time. Foreign cheese prices are the same as last week.

RULES FOR FARMING LISTED BY COLLEGE

North Carolina Institution Gives Eight Chief Points for Business

Raleigh, N. C.—The North Carolina State Agricultural college, after making a study of the business farming, has found that eight chief points are pertinent to the industry.

The study was made chiefly for southern farmers who raise a cotton crop, but the points are universal enough to apply to all types of agriculture. The rules for farming as listed by the college are: 1. Each farmer should grow sufficient grain and roughage to supply the needs of his work stock. 2. Grow an all-year-round garden for the purpose of supplying the needs of his family with the necessary vegetables, and in most instances have a surplus to market. 3. Keep at least 50 laying hens to supply the needs of his own family and have a surplus of both poultry and eggs for sale. 4. Keep at least one family cow to supply the family with milk and butter, and wherever sufficient feeds are available, additional cows to produce milk and butter to be sold on the market. 5. Produce sufficient pork for the family's needs. If surplus corn is available, increase the supply of hogs so as to be able to sell on the local market or to take part in cooperative carlot shipments to the larger markets, thus increasing the family income. 6. Plant cotton only on the best cotton lands, and restrict the acreage to those lands that will produce at least half a bale during a normal season. 7. Have at least two so-called money crops. 8. Begin a definite rotation of crops, which should include a legume crop grown on at least one-fourth of the cultivated acreage each year so as to improve the fertility of the soil and ultimately be able to reduce the cost of production.

EUROPEAN FARMS PAY SPEED ON THE FARM

"Five hours from what European farmers live in hovels in poverty is no longer accurate," says Dr. Galpin, of the United States Department of Agriculture. "Conditions are bad in some cases, as they are in the United States, but there is a great number of farmers who are comparable with what we have in this country."

TOBACCO CROP GROWS

A tobacco growers' association has been organized in Kelowna, British Columbia, Canada. The tobacco crop in this district has had a successful season and indications are that the next year's acreage devoted to the nicotine weed will be greatly increased.

SPEED ON THE FARM

A record of almost 40,000 individual corn plants has been obtained by J. T. Meyers, in charge of corn breeding at the Ohio State University. "We are trying to perfect a corn to live with the corn borer," says Meyers.

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—Members of the Waupaca County Holstein Breeders association, meeting at Manawa, favored the proposal to secure an agricultural agent for Waupaca-co. A similar action was taken by the Guersus Breeders association a few weeks ago. Waupaca-co. has had no agent for four years. At the Manawa meeting the fact was mentioned that when the exhibition barns at the Waupaca-co fair grounds were formerly filled with livestock from Waupaca-co, this year only one herd was shown, all the rest of the stocks coming from outside the county. Waupaca-co. had any exhibits at the state fair for several years. It also was shown that the county was losing much in valuable advertising and much as an agricultural section, that farmers were not cooperating for their mutual benefit as they did a few years ago. The services of an agricultural agent would do a great deal to remedy these matters it is believed.

TESTER GIVES REPORT
According to reports of L. L. Sether, official tester 324 head of cattle were entered from 24 Waupaca County Cow Testing association in November. These had an average production of 12.4 pounds fat for the month of November. Twenty of the cows tested produced more than 40 pounds of milk during the thirty days. Paulinski had high herd, six grade and purebred Guernsey having an average production of 65 pounds of milk and 35.4 pounds of fat per cow.

Rev. J. M. Kellogg, pastor of the Presbyterian church, head an article on Psychology at the last meeting of the Shakespeare club. Dr. F. H. Russell gave a talk on the beaver and Dr. C. C. Nierriman on deer. Other members of the club discussed current events. Gilbert Mody discussed life among the diamond mines of Africa. The club will hold its next meeting Jan. 3, at Dr. F. H. Russell's office. His subject will be "The Land of Lakes."

The farm home of Herbert Frank, near Poyssippi, was razed by fire last Monday afternoon, although the barns and other buildings were saved. There was a strong wind blowing at the time, and cold weather added to the difficulty of fighting the fire. Nothing was saved but a part of the furniture. Reports from the Christofferson hospital at Waupaca state that William Vetter who was struck by an automobile last Saturday night, received a broken neck. Mr. Vetter's injury is considered serious.

CLINTONVILLE FIVE
LOSES TO SHAWANO

High School Squad Loses, 20 to 15, After Six Successive Victories

Clintonville—After six successive victories the Clintonville high basketball team suffered defeat at the hands of the strong Shawano team at Shawano, Friday evening. The score was 20 to 15. The local boys held a tie with the winners in the first quarter, but Shawano was soon in the lead and made it 8 to 4 at the half. Clintonville lads showed great form in the last quarter when they cut down an 18 to 8 lead, which Shawano held in the third quarter, to a final score of 20 to 15 in favor of Shawano. Schumacher, captain and forward of the Shawano squad, did most of the work for them, making 12 of his team's twenty points. Sturm, Grignon and Schrader accounted for the rest.

The Linups were as follows: Clintonville—Forwards, George and Walter Martins; center, Capt. Kruse; guards, Sievers and Delow. Shawano—Forwards, Schumacher and Schrader; center, Mantz; guards, Grignon and Sturm.

WAUPACA CAGERS DEFEAT MANAWA IN
FAST GAME, 25-23

Visitors Stage Great Rally in Last Few Minutes but Fall Short of Win

Waupaca—Waupaca won its third game in the Central Wisconsin High School Basketball conference, Friday night at Manawa, by defeating the Manawa high team 25 to 23 in a fast and rough game. The blue and white squad exhibited a fast passing offensive, which carried the ball under the basket, and a defense which Manawa found hard to solve. The first period was rather slow, and the half ended with Waupaca leading 11 to 6. In the second half, Waupaca scored repeatedly and increased its lead by 11 points. It was not until the closing minutes of play that Manawa threatened by scoring several long shots, but their rally fell short of a tie by only one basket.

In the only other conference game played Friday, Weyauwega, Waupaca's ancient rival on the basketball court, defeated Jola 47 to 6. The next game for the local squad comes after the holiday vacation when the team goes to Marion, Jan. 7. Waupaca defeated Marion here 16 to 13, after trailing most of the game, and while they expect a victory, a closely contested game is looked for.

Considering that the squad this season is composed chiefly of new material, they are showing the results of their training and Coach H. L. Pautz is confident that his squad will develop into a winning combination if they continue to show the same spirit they have exhibited in the work so far. Summary of Friday's game:

Lost Articles—And Articles That Stay Lost

There's a big difference between them! And the distinction generally lies in the fact that some were advertised for in the Post-Crescent's Classified columns—the others were not.

Recovering lost valuables through this paper's Lost and Found column is a comparatively simple and a very logical proceeding. It's based on common sense and the law of averages.

The first thought of nine out of ten people who find something of value is to watch the Post-Crescent's ads to find the name of its owner. The sensible thing to do is to give the honest people a chance to return the property that has been found.

Next time YOU lose something—don't worry—call 543 and ask for an ad taker.

GRANDPARENTS WANT TO ADOPT ORPHANS

Paternal Grandfather and Maternal Grandmother Want Motherless Youngsters

Indications were that the legal tangle resulting when a paternal grandfather and a maternal one sought to adopt two children left orphans in Appleton recently would be amicably settled. It was reported by County Judge Fred V. Heinemann.

The mother of the children died recently and shortly after the paternal grandfather took out adoption papers at Oshkosh. Coming here to claim his wards he was informed that the maternal grandmother had explained to local authorities that she also wished to adopt the boy and girl. Her home is in Marion.

For some time it appeared as though a fight might be precipitated in three counties, Outagamie, Winnebago and Waupaca, but the grandfather upon hearing of the second claim seemed willing to arbitrate.

He denied knowledge of the fact that there were other persons willing to undertake the support of the unfortunate children.

The rush started much earlier than previous years, according to the postmaster, proving that patrons are realizing the wisdom of early mailing.

More mail was handled at the Appleton postoffice Monday than any other day in the history of the institution, according to Postmaster William H. Zuehlke. A veritable avalanche of incoming and outgoing parcels, greeting cards poured into the postoffice starting early in the morning, continuing throughout the entire day. The day crew of office clerks, who normally quit work about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, were required to remain on duty until 2 o'clock Tuesday morning to get the office cleared of mail.

'BULLDOG TOM' IS ON WARPATH AGAIN; WOULD EXPEL GOULD

Reason Isn't Clear, but Both
Democrats and Republicans
Wonder

BY RODNEY TUMER

Washington—Bulldog Tom Walsh, the hero of Teapot Dome, is on the warpath again.

His sudden challenge of the fitness of Arthur H. Gould of Maine to sit in the Senate was so unexpected that some of his Democratic colleagues are wondering if he is more seeking to settle a question of the Senate's right to expel in such a case, or if he isn't perhaps having some groundwork for the next Democratic election to make against the seating of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith of Illinois next year.

As he made his speech on behalf of his resolution for a committee investigation of the Gould charges, he was piled high with reference books, from which he read rather copiously in order to forestall the counter-attack of the Republicans, led by Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania. He argued as a judge might deliver a charge to the jury, citing some precedents favorable to his case and some that were not.

The Montana senator makes a striking figure as he stands, arguing questions of law and precedence. No man in the chamber is better informed on these subjects than he. His immaculate appearance—his wear of a frock coat and dark gray trousers—and his bristling white mustache add the impression he seeks to make as he avails on the "profound importance" of the question at issue.

Walsh himself says that the fate of Gould isn't important—it's the principle of the thing. Can the Senate fire Gould under the circumstances and if not, then what? He has taken pains to point out that even if Gould went out, his Democratic opponent in the recent election would not succeed him.

It is not difficult to believe Walsh when he says that his prime motives are not political. Walsh's knowledge of constitutional law and most other sorts of law—and his ability to handle them—are famous. In the old days in Montana his legal brilliance was the astonishment of high priced and supposedly

TAX COMMITTEE TO MEET AT MILWAUKEE

A meeting of the tax committee recently appointed by Mayor Albert C. Rule to prepare a tax program for presentation to the state legislature will meet at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, Dec. 23, at the office of Mayor Daniel W. Hoan in Milwaukee. Mayor Hoan was appointed chairman of the committee.

Mayor Rule will attend the meeting. An invitation to be present was received by him Monday morning from Mayor Hoan.

Formation of the committee followed a statewide tax meeting recently held here at which representatives of Commercial and trade organizations, and officers of the Badger municipalities attended. Mayor Hoan and F. H. Clausen, the latter of Horicon, discussed the tax situation in the state, and the mayor was authorized to appoint the committee.

superior lawyers imported from the east for important cases. He fought the copper interests bitterly on many occasions; he was never a corporation lawyer. Until the time he came to the Senate, most of the labor legislation passed in Montana had been drafted by Walsh.

Always he was noted for the bulldog tenaciousness with which he later went after and uncovered the oil scandals. Before he entered politics he was especially noted for his knowledge of mining law.

Today, there probably is not another man in Congress whose office contains anywhere near as many reference books as Walsh's. There is a complete library of all federal statutes and supreme court reports, digests of decisions and precedents, reference books on legislation and constitutional law and Congressional Records dating back to 1908. There are nearly 1500 large volumes.

In Montana, his friends say, he has a huge library which covers "everything under the sun."

WISCONSIN HAS 167 LOAN ASSOCIATIONS

Membership Totals 200,939.
According to Figures of Comptroller

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Washington, D. C.—Wisconsin has 167 Building and Loan Associations with a total membership of 200,939 figures made public by Comptroller of the Currency McIntosh today revealed.

This form of investment is becoming more popular each year. The total number of Building and Loan Associations in the United States in 1925 was 12,403 as compared with 11,844 in 1924.

The total assets of Wisconsin's building and loan association is $149,645,269, which is an increase of $31,468,315 during the year. An increase for the year of $1,828 in the membership was also shown.

In 1925 there were 26 failures of building and loan associations in the United States, involving a loss of approximately a half million dollars. Of these failures 22 were in Pennsylvania, 1 in North Carolina, 1 in Utah, and 2 in Minnesota. Seventeen of the associations which failed in Pennsylvania were located in Philadelphia and closed by the State banking department in July, 1925. They had combined assets of about $2,000,000, were controlled by the same persons, and their failure was due to mismanagement.

There has been a steady increase in the failure of building and loan associations since 1920. For that year only 2 associations failed. In 1921 the number increased to six, in 1922 it dropped back to 4; in 1923 it jumped to 9, and in 1924 this number was doubled and eighteen associations failed. The total loss covering these years was $1,231,614.

DRAINAGE SURVEY IS HALTED OVER HOLIDAYS

Preliminary work of surveying a proposed new drainage district to take in a considerable amount of land in the north section of town of Kaukauna will be virtually abandoned until after the holidays, it was reported by County Surveyor Lloyd Schindler on Friday. It was expected that much of the preliminary survey could be accomplished before the holidays but extreme cold prevented the work, it was stated.

There were located in Philadelphia and closed by the State banking department in July, 1925. They had combined assets of about $2,000,000, were controlled by the same persons, and their failure was due to mismanagement.
